GERMANS LOSE 2 MAJOR SHIPS AS NORTH SEA BATTLE RAGES ON

NEW VICTORY IN MID-WEST VOTE SCORED

Roosevelt, Dewey Triumphs Give Rivals Challenge in Presidential Race.

GARNER LOSES IN ILLINOIS

Renomination Demand Seen in Roosevelt Landslide by 6 to 1 Margin.

(By Associated Press)

Thomas E. Dewey and Franklin D. Roosevelt by fresh triumphs in the midwest farm belt today strengthened a leadership in the 1940 presidential races that challenged other contenders.

In Nebraska's Republican preferential primary, Dewey was running well ahead of Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, just a week after an easy Wisconsin victory over the Michigan senator.

Dewey had 84,170 and Vandenberg 61,298 from 1,640 of the state's 2,033 precincts.

In Illinois Mr. Roosevelt rolled up a 6 to 1 margin over the anti-third term candidacy of Vice President Garner, causing state Democratic leaders to describe the vote as a "demand" for the president's renomination.

The vote (5,741 out of 8,336 precincts): Roosevelt 813,064; Garner 131,369.

Dewey Unopposed.

Dewey was unopposed in Illinois, but his supporters had hoped for a big turnout as a harbinger of Republican strength in November. Mr. Roosevelt's total was running well ahead of the combined votes for Garner and Dewey, although the New York prosecutor was about even with the president in the non-metropolitan areas.

Mr. Roosevelt had no opposition in Nebraska, where his total was below the Dewey-Vandenberg aggregate. In neither state are the primary results binding on the national convention delegates.

The principal Democratic contest in Nebraska involved the senatorial race in which Sen. Edward Burke was trailing Gov. R. L. Cochran, who had accused Burke of breaking his original New Deal pledges.

In Illinois, Democratic Senator Slattery won renomination for the remainder of the term of the late J. Hamilton Lewis. Slattery was backed by the Kelly-Nash-Horner organization, which also supported Harry B. Hershey, victorious over Lieut. Gov. John Steele in the Democratic gubernatorial contest.

Green Nominated.

Illinois Republicans nominated C. Wayland Brooks for senator and

Stockholder Sues Girdler and Other Republic Officers

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Sixteen officers and directors of Republic Steel Corp., including Chairman Tom M. Girdler and President R. J. Wysor, are defendants today in stockholders' suits seeking $12,850,000 allegedly lost by the company as a result of the 1937 little steel strike.

Identical suits were filed yesterday here and in New York in the name of Mrs. Minnie Friedman of New York, owner of 10 shares of common stock, and on behalf of all other stockholders.

The petitions charge the defendants caused Republic to "interfere with, restrain and coerce employes in the exercise of their rights guaranteed them under the national labor relations act, to self-organization." Girdler and Wysor are among the defendants names as having actively opposed the CIO and as refusing to sign a contract with the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

Company spokesmen said they had no statement at present.

Refused Nazis

Norse and Germans Fight For Possession of Railroad Entering Sweden.

(By United Press)

ABISKO, NORWEGIAN-SWEDISH FRONTIER—A major battle between Norwegians and Germans was reported developing today near the village of Scoglund, where the Norwegians were in strong defensive positions against German forces landed on the coast south of Tromsoe.

According to messages received at the frontier, the port of Tromsoe still was in the hands of Norwegians and could be used as a base for landing of Allied troops if they seek to advance overland toward the German forces at Narvik.

Norwegian sources expressed the belief that battle might be a decisive one for the entire northern area.

The country-side was swept by a blizzard-like storm yesterday but the weather was clear again today

STREET REPAIRS PUZZLING CITY

Mayor and Service Director Scratch Heads as Funds Dwindle, Bills Pile Up.

The Mansfield board of control was hunting money today to meet the 1940 street repair bill unusually large this year because of the severe winter.

Mayor W. J. Locke and Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, who make up the board, met this morning to go over city "household accounts" for the first quarter of the year.

Locke said that all city departments had been operated within their budget for the first three months of the year except the two affected by the harsh winter.

The 1940 budget provided $19,000 for water line repairs, or $4,750 for each quarter. The bill for the first quarter ran almost twice that amount, totalling $8,800. This was due, Locke said, to the fact that so many water mains and hydrants were broken by freezing.

FORM DECREES ON AMERICAN NEUTRAL ZONE

President Scans New Problem Resulting From German 'Protectorates.'

INVOKES 'CASH AND CARRY'

Peaceful Danish Occupation Leaves Question of State of War.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt and his chief advisers on foreign affairs formulated executive decrees today to adapt American neutrality to Nazi Germany's "protectorate" over Denmark and Norway.

Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Welles virtually had finished work on a series of orders, some of them designed to invoke the neutrality act's "cash and carry" and no-credits restrictions against the two Scandinavian nations.

They discussed the measures with the chief executive immediately on his return last night from Hyde Park, N. Y. Mr. Roosevelt's special train was met by Hull, Welles and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson.

Government attorneys, meanwhile, pored over the complicated question of whether the full force of the neutrality act should be applied with a proclamation designating the two erstwhile neutrals as belligerents. Technicalities beset the problem.

Question Raised.

In Denmarks' case, for instance, there had been actually no war. Germany's occupation was 'peaceful." In view of this, does a state of war exist to justify a "belligerent" proclamation under the neutrality act?

The situation in Norway was not so clear. The initial resistence to the Nazi invasion, however, produced a state akin to war.

One thing appeared certain. A sizable portion of Norway and all of Denmark have passed under German control and for administrative purposes constitute a part of Hitler's Third Reich, at least for the present.

As a consequence, it was considered unlikely that the government would permit further American exports to Denmark or Norway on any but a cash and carry basis on that credits to the two countries would be continued.

'Good Thing.'

Commenting with gravity on the European situation, President Roosevelt said enroute to Washington yesterday that the events of Monday and Tuesday undoubtedly would cause a great many

$16,300 Saved by Machine Labor on Auto Production

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—Edsel Ford told the federal monopoly committee today that the cost of a popular-priced automobile, now selling for about $700, would increase to more than $17,000 if manufactured by hand labor instead of by huge labor-saving machines.

The president of the Ford company testified as an expert witness at hearings dealing with "technology and the concentration of economic power."

At the cost of $17,000, Ford said, "not more than 50 cars a year would be sold" and few of the 125,000 men employed at Ford plants would have jobs.

Coroner's Jury Decides Mother Responsible for Deaths.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—A coroner's jury yesterday decided that Mrs. Lolita Davis, 36, committed suicide after beating three of her children with homicidal intent last Thursday. The verdict apparently cleared her 11-year-old daughter, Chloe.

Chloe had told police that she got a razor blade for her mother so she could slash her wrists. The child also said that at her mother's direction she beat with a hammer both her three-year-old brother and her mother.

Naval warfare off the Norwegian coast today exacted a heavy toll of ships and men from the British, German and Norwegian navies fighting for control of invaded Norway.

Acknowledged by the belligerents as lost were the German cruisers Bluecher and Karlsruhe and the British destroyers Hardy and Hunter.

British dispatches also said Norway's two biggest warships had been torpedoed and sunk by German vessels at Narvik with the loss of more than 500 men.

Beyond these acknowledged losses the picture of the naval warfare, apparently a series of sharp engagements raging all along Norway's fjord-marked coastline, was confused by conflicting British and German claims.

The Germans said they had scored hits on the following:

SEA: Chamberlain Tells of Naval Battle Waged at Narvik

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—A usually reliable neutral source said it had been learned that a British naval flotilla returned to Narvik after the unsuccessful dawn raid today, forced an entrance to the fjord and began landing marines. There was no British or other confirmation of this report.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Five British destroyers battled six German destroyers in a fierce British dawn attack at the northern Norwegian port of Narvik today, the British losing two destroyers and the Germans at least one, Prime Minister Chamberlain told the house of commons this afternoon.

The British lost the destroyers Hunter and Hardy and suffered damage to the Hostile and Hotspur in their clash with the German vessels, described by the prime minister as being of the "latest and largest type."

Then the house rang with cheers as Chamberlain announced:

"One of the German destroyers was destroyed and three were left afloat—hit and burning."

"On the way out," Chamberlain continued, "the British ships met the German ship Ravensfield, which was thought to be carrying reserve ammunition for the landed German forces. This vessel was blown up."

In addition, he said, "it is perhaps no less important" than the sinking and damaging of the German naval craft "that six merchant ships suspected of containing unloaded stores of the German expedition were sunk in the action by the British destroyers."

The British destroyer Havoc was untouched, the prime minister said, and he told how, "after the most determined action against the superior force" the damaged Hotspur withdrew, covered by the other two destroyers.

LAND: Norwegian Forces In Sharp Clash With Nazis

(By Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM—Travelers from Norway today reported that a battle was in progress this morning between German troops supported by planes and Norwegian infantry at Elverum, 75 miles northeast of Oslo, where the Norwegian royal family and the government took refuge yesterday.

Elverum is only 25 miles from the border of neutral Sweden which might provide another refuge for the government if Norwegian troops are unable to stem the German advance.

German forces were transported to the battle zone by bus yesterday. Aerial reinforcements were brought up later.

All frontier communication lines were broken so that nothing further could be learned in Sweden about the fighting or where the royal family was today.

A Swedish journalist who witnessed occupation of Oslo said it was carried out by 400 Germans after a four-hour miniature blitzkrieg.

Orders City's Summer Playground Program Abandoned

BOARD FORCED TO ACTION BY LACK OF FUNDS

Finances Insufficient Because of Failure to Renew Special Levy for Program.

For the first time in 11 years, Mansfield will be without a summer program of supervised playground activities during June, July and August, Floyd F. Dent, chairman of the city recreation board, announced today.

Decision to abandon the program followed a conference of board members with district WPA representatives here yesterday. Failure of the two-tenths of a mill playground levy last fall is responsible for the action.

It was announced following the conference that the WPA will also curtail its recreational program because the city will be unable to finance a share of the cost.

In announcing the board's decision, Dent pointed out that a small balance still remains in the playground fund. This, he said, may be used to finance a baseball program for boys under 16.

"We operated the playgrounds and managed a recreation program for 11 years on the money received from a five-year levy, but the time came this year when that money could be stretched no longer. We still have about $738 and with that we will try to work out some sort of a baseball program for boys under 16," Dent said.

Last fall the recreation levy was submitted to Mansfield voters but received less than 50 per cent of the votes. Dent said it was undetermined whether the levy would be placed on the ballot again next November. He added that the recreation board was trying to work out a permanent program to be financed through a tax levy and that this would be presented to voters either in November or at a later election.

The WPA wood craft project at Johns park will also be discontinued at the end of this week, because of lack of city funds to carry it on. WPA furnished only the leaders. WPA will, however, continue its handcraft program. at the Y. M. C. A., Dent said.

Mansfield's summer playground system has been in effect since 1918. Attorney W. J. Bissman and Dr. W. H. Kellogg, chaplin of the Ohio State reformatory at that time, were the "daddies" of the city playgrounds. They started the idea after a "Big Brother" movement had failed, and the first year raised funds through public donations.

Public subscription financing continued until 1921 when the playgrounds were accepted as an agency of the Community Fund. They continued to be supported by the Fund until the end of 1928. In 1928, a one mill playground levy was passed by and the revenue from this became available the following year. A. F. Porter, mayor at that time, appointed a playground board made up of Philip Smith, chairman; W. J. Harrison, Paul R. Tappan, W. G. Thomas and George Hoffman.

The levy was in effect for five years and the money realized from it financed the summer recreation program for 11 years, or until the end of 1929.

The present board is made up of Dent, Paul Tappan, Carl Stough, Harold W. Arlin and W. C. Mead.

Have Wife Drink Citrates if She Would Fire Maid

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Get the wife to drink citrates if she wants more strength to do the housework.

She may even do without the maid if she reacts to this drink like one young woman described to the American Chemical society today, whose ability to do physical work rose 68 per cent in a week's trial of citrates.

The experiments were reported by John A. Killian and Charles Oelassen of New York City. The drinks were small amounts, seven times a day, of either sodium citrate or of citrate with sodium bicarbonate. These are alkaline drinks. To them was added a little aspirin when it was discovered that the latter reduced muscular pain. The experiments covered five months.

The guinea pigs were six men and two women. They pedaled bicycles in a laboratory, until exhausted. Those with athletic training were less benefitted than the non-athletes. But the most athletic, a man, did 24 per cent more work after citrate drinking. The average rise for all was 34 per cent.

The woman who went up 68 per cent had been accustomed to complete leisure from physical work.

Up and Down THE STREET

There's probably one thing Mansfield baseball fans don't know about Andy Sinay, Mansfield Braves' pitcher, who assisted Manager Dewey Stover conduct the rookie school last week. The youthful hurler is a capable bowler. In Canton, where he lives, he has a bowling average of 201, a fine mark in any circle. He keeps fit during time off from baseball duties by pounding the maples on the Mansfield alleys.

It's probably the lingering influence of Al Smith's famous campaign song of several years ago. In the lobby of the Madison theater is displayed the pictures and placards for the English-made picture "Sidewalks of London" starring Vivien Leigh and Charles Laughton. But the local theater boys in printing their own lobby posters made the mistake of billing it "The Sidewalks of New York, and so far it hasn't been corrected. It is actually London, however, in case you are confused.

The much publicized Sidewalk Superintendent's club which made it's debut in New York City a few years ago has taken on an unofficial branch in Mansfield within the past week. The New York club consists of a group of interested persons who spend hours watching the excavation and construction jobs, similar to the group that has daily been watching workmen's progress on the West Fourth street water construction project. Probably the most interested and most unofficial "superintendent" is C. N. Shultz, chairman of council's water committee, who spends a few hours each day consulting with foremen and following the progress of the work.

Donad Cram, Y. M. C. A. physical director, is demonstrating his versatility these days. You rarely hear of a circus director also directing the show band, but will serve in these two capacities when the "Y" circus is presented in the gymnasium late this month. Although not a musician, Cram assumed the job of organizing a small band to furnish music during the show, and will also act as its director.

Police today were investigating the robbery of the Crescent cafe, South Park street, after an employe discovered early this morning that the place had been burglarized.

Two cash registers had been looted of $19.80 and an undetermined amount of cash was taken when two pin ball machines were broken open, police reports said.

GALION PRIEST TO BE HONORED

Mansfield Catholics to Take Part in Jubilee Celebration for Father Schreiner.

Mansfield Catholics will take part in celebrating the Golden Jubilee of the priesthood of Father A. H. Schreiner of St. Joseph's Catholic church of Galion.

Among several functions planned for the venerable churchman will be a dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Thursday noon for the Most Reverend Karl J. Alter, bishop of the Toledo diocese, and priests from neighboring towns. The dinner will follow a service at the Galion church which will be featured by the jubilee address by Msgr. R. C. Goebel and music by St. Peter's choir of the Mansfield church.

The celebration will bring a number of well known churchmen of Ohio to Galion to honor Father Schreiner. The celebration opens tomorrow and continues through Sunday. The papal colors of yellow and white predominate the decorations which adorn St. Joseph's church and the Galion Elks club where several of the events will be held.

So many seats have been reserved for the service at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in St. Joseph's school, that the program will be repeated on Friday evening, according to Father Louis Huffman, in charge of arrangements.

Sunday will be given over to the celebration of the parishioners of Father Schreiner. There will be a solemn high mass at 8 a. m., with Father Joseph Maerder of the Immaculate Conception church of Bellevue, delivering the sermon.

The program Sunday evening will be at the Elks club and will be a testimonial dinner by the parish, and the address of the evening will be delivered by Father William Killoran of St. Patrick's Catholic church of Galion.

Father Schreiner was ordained a priest April 12, 1890 in Cleveland by the bishop of that diocese.

2,200 SEE 'TOBACCO ROAD,' LEAVE 'DISAPPOINTED' AS THEY ALL DO

By JANE WILLIAMS

More than 2,200 persons from Mansfield and this vicinity witnessed last night's performance and the last-minute matinee yesterday afternoon of "Tobacco Road" at the Madison theater.

Last night's house was not only sold out but 50 chairs were added to the 1,425 regular seats. The matinee, arranged only the day before to accomodate the run-over of persons who were unable to obtain seats for the evening performance, was attended by 800.

Manager Grattan Johnston placed telephone calls all morning to surrounding towns to persons who had arranged to be called in case seats were available at the last minute.

Not since the hey-day of the legitimate theater here, when standing room was sold for such shows as "No, No, Nanneette" and "The Student Prince," has a stage show drawn such a crowd in Mansfield.

The nation-wide publicity attendant to "Tobacco Road" for the past seven years, during which time it has set up a new continuous run record in American theater history, was undoubtedly responsible for the interest in it here. History of the show on tour has been that it fills a theater no matter how many times it is shown in one city, as in the case of Marion where it has drawn capacity houses three times.

Yet almost invariably, the average theater goer is somewhat disapponted in the play itself. This was true of last night's performance in Mansfield.

Staged in a tragic and morbid setting, the show draws little applause throughout the performance.

John Barton, uncle of James Barton who has played the role for years in New York City, is one of the best, if not the best of the actors who has played the role of Jeeter Lester on the road. But as for the rest of the cast, any one of them could have been overshadowed in the same role by the Mansfield Community Players.

They have played their roles too long and they recite them as mechanically as little Johnny saying his multiplication tables.

The original lines of the play have been "sent to the cleaners" for the road shows and much of the profanity in the first years of its run is missing. There remains more than enough, however, to make "Tobacco Road" a shocker.

And that, theater men believe, is the secret of its success. American theater goers like to be shocked. If the show is brought back to Mansfield undoubtedly the theater could be packed again.

MARCH AID FOR COUNTY'S NEEDY COSTS $12,821

First Quarter Expenditures Reach $37,111, Increase of $1,380 Over 1939.

Richland county's relief expenditures during March totaled $12,821, highest figure since January 1939, Relief Director J. V. Finney reported today. The amount exclusive of Shelby, increased nearly $600 over February relief costs.

Finney's reports disclosed that the March expenditures boosted the first quarter relief total to $37,111, an increase of $1,380 above expenditures for the corresponding period last year. During the first three months of 1939 total relief expenditures were listed at $35,731.

Increased costs the past month, the director said, were reflected in the extreme cold weather which brought additional demands for fuel and clothing and hiked the case load to a new high for the past 12 months.

Mansfield's relief costs were listed at $5,801, an increase of $346 over the previous month, while the Richland county are expenditures totaled $3,607, a drop of about $50 from the February figure.

The rest of the increase was shown in non-administrative expense which was listed at $1,898, or more than $300 above the February expenditures. Chief item accounting for the increase was medical services extended to indigent families, listed by Finney at $956. The February medical services cost $593.

His report also showed that 100 persons were assigned to WPA projects during the month to replace workers who were taken off the rolls because they had been on the government payroll roster 18 months or for illness. It was reported that WPA was now employing 710 persons in the county and that 210 were certified and awaiting assignments.

During the month more than 21 tons of surplus commodities purchased from the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation was distributed to relief clients. These included flour, apples, rolled oats, raisins, corn meal, beans and lard.

HAS EXPERIENCE

Ohio's New Finance Director Has 30 Years' Background.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Nearly 30 years of experience in the state service went with Herbert D. Defenbacher, 51, to his new post as Ohio finance director today.

Defenbacher, born in Dover, was appointed to the directorship by Gov. John W. Bricker to succeed Robert R. Bankham of Wilmington, who resigned to campaign for the Republican nomination for state auditor in the May 14 primary.

Appointment to the $6,500-a-year office climaxed for Defenbacher a career begun as an examiner for the state auditor. He was supervisor of municipal work in the bureau of inspection and supervision of public affairs from 1931 to 1937.

Governor Bricker named Defenbacher assistant finance director and superintendent of the budget last year at $5,000 annually and late yesterday made him Bangham's successor.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

After the Fairs Are Over.

I am always writing about the fabulous Billy Rose. When I handed him a small lavender-colored typewriter, the question "What's left for you to do when the gargantuan Fairs close?" and a little encouragement, this is what happened:

By BILLY ROSE

If you should ask most people to guess at what I plan to do after the fairs over, they'd probably surmise that Billy Rose, having turned the dry land and the water into stages for his spectacles, now seeks new elements to conquer and will use the very heavens as the setting for his highjinks.

I am glad to leave indulgence in such hyperbole to others and content myself with the single word "highjinks." Highjinks—this time in the literal sense—is what I mean to go in for after the New York and San Francisco expositions, and with them my two Acquacades, have run their course in the late fall.

To put it plainly, I intend to produce a Sky Show, an aerial extravaganca with a "chorus" of sixty-four aviators, celestial crooners warbling their love ballads thousands of feet above the ground and, on terra firma a series of thrilling evolutions by cavalry detachments and massed tanks.

The Sky Show will be produced at a race track or automobile speedway near a convenient airport. The place will hold from 50,000 to 75,000 spectators, and the "stage" will measure approximately—180 acres! The "stage" will be sodded and traversed by concrete ribbons 100 yards wide each as runways for the "chorus" in their silver-and-vermillion airships.

The United States government this year is kindly training 17,000 aerial chorus boys for me.

* * *

Two captive balloons or anchored Zeppelins will contain a great orchestra and a huge male chorus, blending their strains between 100 and 200 feet up in the air. Vast as the spectacle will be, the show will have a plot—Boy will meet Girl thousands of feet above the earth. There will be singing aviators and aviatrixes and, on the ground, a ballet of from 300 to 400 dances brilliantly costumed in idealized airmens' uniforms.

Among the features of this truly titanic production there will further be gyrations of the "chorus" and such additional stunts as take-offs and landings by groups of planes, fancy diving and loop-the-loops by "soloists," "duets," "trios" and "quartets" and mass parachute jumps.

The finale will be a thrilling patrotic apotheosis, giving a display of the country's aerial resources. Naturally, I hope for the co-operation of the government in carrying these plans into successful execution. A member of the president's cabinet has assured me that the chances of such official support are favorable.

* * *

This, for the moment, is all I can publicly say about the Sky Show project, every last detail of which has been carefully worked out.

I will, however, not confine myself entirely to the oxygen-and-nitrogen business but devote some of my efforts to the realm of H2O.

Another production plan for 1941 concerns an ambulating Acquacade. For next year I hope to combine the hit features of the 1940 and 1939 Acquacades into a monster water carnival that will make a 24-week tour of the principal cities.

Will the show be given in swimming pools? Guess again. It will be presented in sports arenas, armories, convention halls and similar large structures, somewhat after the manner of the Sonja Henie ice entertainments.

* * *

The principal problem involved in the execution of this scheme is the construction of two 150-foot tanks and two sets of portable heating and filtering apparatus. Because of the time consumed by the setting up of the tank and other equipment, two sets will be required, so that, while the show plays a town, the duplicate basin and other paraphernalia, in charge of an expert crew, can be sent on to the next stand in advance of the Acquacade's arrival.

My technical staff, headed by Carlton Winckler, already has begun to work out the details of the engineering phases of the traveling water ballet.

* * *

My third project for next season will be carried out in the very heart of New York. My attorneys, at the present writing, are drawing up a ten-year lease on the premises at Seventh Avenue and Forty-fifth Street formerly known as the International Casino.

Here I hope to function as a sort of Elsa Maxwell for the masses, meaning that I will stage a continuous frolic for those thousands upon thousands of young people whose pleasures now are mostly confined to riding the subways, queuing up in front of movie houses and watching the arthritic antics of the mazda marionettes in the Broadway light-signs.

The festivities will be known simply as "Billy Rose's Party." There will be name bands to which hundreds of couples will be able to dance, a perpetual buffet supper, and such artless aids to innocent merriment as gaudy paper hats, confetti, serpentines and noisemakers of every raucous varieties. A bang-up hoopla for the price of a movie ticket.

Such, in brief, is my schedule for the coming year, barring unforeseen additions. Of course, there is always the possibility that the British government may invite me to operate the Queen Elizabeth as a showboat on the Hudson!

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—There's a fellow in town who does everything wrong.

He's a producer, and his name is Joe Pasternak.

First off, and far off, he likes people to call him Joe. Everybody knows a producer is a person addressed as "Yes, Mr. Soandso." People call Mr. Pasternak "Joe," and they don't have to prefix it with "yes."

Mr. Pasternak—I mean Joe—is a smallish fellow with a broad grin, sandy hair and a hi-ya look. Everybody knows a producer should look important, but Joe is too busy to look important.

Equally known it is that no producer should follow an open door policy, but that is what Joe does. Joe knows, I guess, an array of secretaries bulwarking doors marked "private" is very impressive, but he figures ideas have a hard time convincing secretaries, and Joe likes ideas to walk into his office and make themselves at home. Any producer can tell you how wrong this is.

* * *

Joe likes his players to be natural, so he has no truck with drama lessons or coaches. He wouldn't let Deanna Durbin have a single session on how to register coyness, alarm, or joy, and he hid Gloria Jean from public notice in case there might be a drama coach concealed among the public. Joe figures the directors can teach the actors all they need to know for the scenes at hand, and he doesn't like acting carried over into private life. He's dead wrong, of course, but what can anyone do?

The guy doesn't even believe in screen tests. He gives them, once in a while, when he has to convince another studio boss, but by and large he likes to save film. When he needed a leading man for "Three Smart Girls Grow Up," he had Bob Cummings call on him at his office and tell the story of his life, and that was all there was to it. There was nobody more surprised than Bob, because giving tests is one of the best things most producers do. Joe has another substitute: he gives a likely youngster a bit in a picture. That's how Peggy Moran got hers, and that's how Harry Stafford, the young singer briefly glimpsed in "It's a Date," got his. Gloria Jean's test was "The Under-Pup," her first starring picture.

The "sneak preview" is an established producer custom, but Joe wants none of it. He tried to fall in line once, but after this lone "sneak" he still found nothing to change in his picture, so he gave it up. He likes to plan and execute his productions without extra footage, so that when a picture's finished it's done and there's nothing to cut. This is iconoclastic.

I don't know what can be done with a wrong fellow like Joe,

CHAPTER XII

"I wasn't dreaming," Elaine told him flatly, unperturbed by his angry manner. Yesterday afternoon she had learned that this was just a pose, a mask he assumed to hide a kind heart. He would not fool her again. "I was just thinking about something."

He nodded his head sharply. "All morning you have been thinking about something. Your body is in the studio but your mind is not. And you have the disgusting expression of a woman in love. Is that what's troubling you?"

Elaine felt herself resenting the sarcastic way in which he enunciated the word "love." She stood up and walked back to the piano. "It isn't troubling me," she said sharply. "I was just thinking how happy I would be when I was married."

He laughed harshly. "You won't be happy. No one is ever happy in marriage."

"How do you know about that?" Elaine asked coolly. "Were you ever married?"

"I am not a fool, Miss Warburton," Monticelli declared haughtily. "And one does not have to be married to know about marriage. I have taught hundreds of married woman how to sing and not one of them was ever happy. That's why they studied voice instead of remaining at home where they belonged. But you'll find out about that yourself. Do you know anything about waiting on tables?"

* * *

He had changed the subject so abruptly that Elaine had not followed him and it was only after a long moment that she realized he had asked her a question.

"I used to wait on tables in my aunt's restaurant," she told him, wonderingly.

He smiled and rubbed his hands together. "A friend of mine needs a girl in his restaurant. The hours are from twelve until six-thirty. The pay is five dollars a week, plus tips; all in all, around twenty dollars a week. Do you want the job? But of course you do! You must have time to sing. Department stores don't leave singing in any of their employees. Well? Well? Do you want the job?"

"Why—why yes, of course," Elaine stammered, confused at the ease with which her final problem had been solved. She smiled her thanks at the crusty teacher. "And I'm very grateful to you Mr. Monticelli."

He sprang from his chair, every muscle in his squat body trembling with rage. "Hogwash! I wasn't trying to help you. Come! You must sing. We cannot waste all day."

Elaine sang no complete songs that morning. Instead, Monticelli sat down at the piano and accompanied her over and over again up and down the scales, pointing out flaws, teaching her the correct things to do as they went along. Elaine had never thought that correct singing was a difficult thing to learn and she was exhausted when Monticelli finally signified they had done enough for one day.

"You have much work to do," he told her as he handed her a card with the restaurant's address printed upon it. "But you are young and you have a voice. If you don't throw it away on that bum you're going to marry you'll be a good singer some day."

Elaine placed the card into her purse and closed the bag with an angry snap. "He is not a bum, Mr. Monticelli," she said resentfully. "I won't permit you to talk that way about him."

"The great Monticelli say what he chooses to say," he declared with a proud flourish of his arm. "He is not only a bum, he is a heel! Good day, Miss Warburton!"

* * *

Elaine walked down the steps smouldering with rage, wondering why it was that every time she entered his house they had a heated exchange of words. Conflicting temperaments, she decided, with an angry shrug. And probably it was her own fault that they did clash. Monticelli had probably just been teasing her, but somehow his words, coming on the heels of what Jane had said about Eric, had annoyed her.

She glanced down at her wrist watch and saw that it was only eleven o'clock. She glanced up and down the street, wondering what she should do to while away the time. She wanted to telephone Eric to find out if his mother had answered the telegram but then recalled she had no idea where he was staying. She thought of returning to the apartment but the day was too lovely to spend indoors and she decided she would pass the time away on a sight-seeing expedition. But even this idea she had to discard for she remembered that she did not know just where the "sights" were located.

Loathe to return to the apartment, she opened her purse and drew out the card that Monticelli had given her. She was pleased to note that the restaurant was located in the Village. She decided to report early for work.

* * *

As it turned out Elaine's decision to report early had been a happy one for the restaurant in which she was to work was enjoying one of those rushes of business which all employers hope for but which leaves them a little breathless when it arrives. Mr. Graves, the tall, sandy-haired proprietor, greeted her effusively when he learned who she was.

"I'm glad to see you," he boomed in the deepest voice she had ever heard. "Can you start now?"

Elaine nodded her head, pleased by her welcome. "I'd like to. You see, I'm not familiar with the way restaurants are run in New York City and I'd like to learn all I can today."

He nodded as though pleased, and called a waitress over to them. "Myrtle, will you show Miss Warburton where to dress? Give her one of the uniforms Agnes used. And when she's ready to go on duty show her the way we do things here."

He nodded curtly and rushed over to the cashier's desk as a customer banked a half-dollar piece impatiently on the counter. Elaine wondered about this. Back home it had been their custom to have the customer pay the check right at the table.

Myrtle noticed her bewilderment as they walked towards the rear of the restaurant. "We get pretty busy here and Mr. Graves doesn't want us to waste time running around for change. So we just give them a check and let it go at that." She opened the door to a little room just off the kitchen and turned on a light. The dressing room was a plain, white-painted room with grey stone floor and steel lockers ranging along both walls. Myrtle walked over to one of these lockers and opened it.

"Agnes used to have this locker," she told Elaine. "Her uniforms are in here, so you might just as well use the locker, too."

She smiled and walked out of the room, and Elaine, as she slipped out of her dress and put the white uniform on, found herself deciding that she would enjoy working there. And the money she would receive would be more than she could earn at the Blanchard store, too. She was most pleased about that, for it meant that if Eric's mother did force him to look for a job they would have something to support them both until he found one.

* * *

She was surprised to learn that working in a restaurant in as large a city as New York was not much different from working in one in a smaller town. Things were done on a much larger scale, of course, and the people as a rule were not inclined to be as friendly as the customers in her aunt's restaurant had been, but all in all, it was a simple matter to accustom herself to the general routine, and though the customers weren't friendly, they did leave tips.

She was both surprised and elated at the number and size of tips she received, but then, realizing most of them had been left for her by men, her surprise vanished She was sufficiently intelligent to know that they tipped her simply because she happened to be attractive. The fact that she took great pains to give them good service, did not, she knew, enter into their calculations. The correctness of her reasoning was proved when one man handed her a fifty-cent piece with a request for a date.

Jane was amused when Elaine told her about this that same night. "The great majority of people in New York are either too busy or too poor to worry about tipping," she exclaimed with a cynical laugh. "And whenever you get such a large tip you may rest assured there's some string attached to it."

Before they could discuss the matter further a knock sounded on their door. Elaine rushed eagerly across the room, hoping it was Eric, hoping too that he had received word from his mother.

It was Eric, and as she saw the grave expression on his face as he walked into the room Elaine felt the happiness ebb from her body. He did not have to say a word, for his sober countenance was vivid proof that Mrs. Reardon had meant what she had said.

He fidgeted nervously as he espied Jane seated before her easel. "Would you care to go out?" he asked Elaine after a pause.

"There's a pretty good show at the Music Hall," Jane volunteered, her flashing eyes indicating that she would not vacate the apartment for him. "Why don't you take Elaine over to see it?"

"Yes, let's," Elaine urged, conscious of Jane's animosity towards him. "I've always wanted to go there anyway."

It took her but a moment to dab a bit of powder on her cheeks and to slip on a hat, and before very long she and Eric were seated in a taxicab speeding towards the theater.

"Well?" Elaine felt she already knew the answer but somehow she had to hear it from his lips. As he hesitated before speaking she recalled that Jane had claimed he was weak. She wondered if this were so, decided that it wasn't, but she could not help but wishing that if he had bad news he could take it with a little more grace.

"I sent the telegram," Eric said in a worried tone. "But she didn't send a reply. That isn't at all like mother. Usually she's very prompt in answering any messages."

"But that's swell!" Elaine exclaimed with a relieved sigh. "She's probably thinking the whole thing over. After all, you couldn't expect her to decide a thing like that in a few minutes. Eric, aren't you glad now that you did send the telegram?"

He nodded his head. "I'm glad that you made me do it this way. Last night I was too excited, and when I held you in my arms all I knew was that I wanted to marry you as quickly as possible. But I'm glad we decided to do it this way. Whether mother likes the idea of our marrying or not, she can't say we didn't let her know about it."

The frown had disappeared from his face, to be replaced by excited animation, and Elaine couldn't help but recall another of Jane's remarks. Eric seemed so different now, almost like another man. Could it be true that she had this effect upon him? Had Jane been right when she implied that when she or his mother made a decision he was more than happy to abide by it?

"I looked for a job today," he told her as the cab speeded up Sixth avenue. "I walked into every brokerage firm in New York. I didn't have any luck, though. It seems they want men with more experience than I've had."

"You might not have to worry about a job," Elaine consoled him. "But even if you do I'm sure you'll find one. Heavens, I found one just this morning and you have more brains and ability than I have."

The compliment pleased him and he sat a little straighter on the seat. "Of course I'll find one," he said confidently. But his eyes were a little envious as he turned to face her. "What sort of job did you find, Elaine?"

(To Be Continued.)

The ancient name of Dublin was Ashcled. It was said to have been built in the year 140.

CROWD OFFICE TO PAY TAXES

Taxpayers Get In Just Ahead of Deadline for Real Estate Payments.

With first-half real estate tax receipts already past the half-million dollar mark, scores of property owners crowded County Treasurer John E. Kolb's office today to pay their taxes before the deadline tonight.

Collections totaling $69,600 in the past two days pushed total receipts up to $555,639 today.

Asserting that he was "well pleased with the collection," Kolb predicted last-minute payments and mail receipts would add several thousand dollars more to the collection in the next few days. Receipts for the half-year period are expected to pass $600,000.

Meanwhile, personal tax collections had mounted to $94,902 today, only $6,000 short of the mark county officials predicted would be reached for the first half of the year.

CLERK KICKS

DETROIT—(INS)—Charles Pomerantz, Detroit postoffice clerk, does not like the promotion plan in his department. In the mails to Washington went his complaint—a postcard measuring three by four feet.

Pomerantz said in spite of 17 years seniority he is No. 157 on the list for promotion. "At this rate," he wrote, "It would take a lifetime to get a promotion since about five clerks a year are advanced."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

An Old-Fashioned Flavor Goes to Town!

WE borrowed an old-fashioned flavor from a farmer's wife . . . and brought it to town for you to enjoy. If you've lived on a farm, be especially sure to taste SMUCKER'S Old-Fashioned Cider Apple Butter.

Then close your eyes and think back . . .

It's apple butter time. Up near the spring house a wood fire smoulders . . . and the old copper kettle hangs low over it. The hard work is done. A saucer of fresh-made apple butter cools in your hand.

You'll always remember the treat it was to eat fresh-made old-fashioned cider apple butter . . . spread thick on a crust of home-baked bread.

So you'll welcome that same fresh-made flavor that SMUCKER has now brought to town. A flavor that comes from . . . choice apples—boiled cider—granulated sugar. Nothing else! The grand old-fashioned recipe.

Ask your grocer for SMUCKER'S Old-Fashioned Cider Apple Butter. A BIG 2-lb. jar for 25¢. If he doesn't have it, write to J. M. Smucker Co., Orrville, O.

Byron Nelson Ready For a 'Little Rest'

TOLEDO —(AP)— Byron Nelson dropped his golf clubs in a corner of the pro shop at Inverness today and hoped his new post as a journeyman of the links would "bring a little rest."

* * *

The 1939 national open king complained he was tired, observing he found winter competition far from refreshing.

* * *

It's no fun," he said with conviction. "Some have the idea it's a long vacation. . . . sometimes it's a pain in the neck."

Although ill with influenza as the winter troupe swept through California, the 26-year-old Texan comes to Toledo as the Sunshine circuit's third-place money winner.

Nelson, succeeding Al Sargent as Inverness professional, reported he expected to play "only a little national golf this summer — the open at Cleveland, the PGA and the Inverness invitational."

"I plan to compete in some state and district meets, too," he said, "but for the most part I will devote considerable time to Inverness and its members."

* * *

As master of the Toledo course, Nelson joins Billy Burke of the Cleveland Country club among Ohio's golfing great. Burke won the 1931 national open after a 72-hole playoff and it also was at Inverness that Babby Jones made his bow to big-time golf, finishing eighth in the 1920 open while yet a boy.

* * *

A native of Fort Worth, Nelson resigned a professional's position at Ridgewood, N. J., to come here.

Injury Parade Starts Early

Impressive List of Players Already in Hospital.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK — (AP) — Injuries, which have decided as many of baseball's pennant races as any .350 hitters, aren't waiting until the Major league season opens to get in their deadly licks.

* * *

As the St. Louis Cardinals grope northward two key men in the Redbirds' National league plans are convalescing in St. Louis. They are first baseman Johnny Mize and second baseman-shortstop-third baseman (nobody knows which) Jimmy Brown. Both have knee troubles.

* * *

Jimmy Dykes, who had figured the Chicago White Sox infield woes were whipped, has had to install Rookie Bob Kennedy at third base and send Eric McNair to second because Jackie Hayes has an eye infection.

Lou Boudreau chipped a bone in his ankle three weeks ago and just when he felt ready to go back to work the Cleveland Indians lost, at least temporarily, the services of southern pitcher Al Milnar and righthanded Mel Harder.

The Philadelphia Athletics have been without Bib Johnson almost all spring, first because of a pulled muscle and later a torn tendon.

Rookie Dom DiMaggio of the Boston Red Sox sprained his ankle sliding; Manager Joe Cronin contracted a bad cold; Jim Tabor cut his hand and Ted Williams sprained his wrist. Joe Gordon of the Yankees has a charley horse.

* * *

The bottom is slipping out of the Brooklyn Dodgers' stock because Manager Leo Durocher's throwing arm was hurt. Rookie Peewee Reese, his understudy at shortstop, has been injured twice.

* * *

And perhaps most decisive of all the individual hurts, Charlie Gehringer, the great but aging second baseman of the Detroit Tigers, has a lame back he says was caused shoveling snow during the winter.

WARREN TEAM OPERATES AS CLEVELAND AFFILIATE

WARREN — (AP) — The newly-organized Warren team of the Pennsylvania State Baseball association will operate as an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians.

The American league club is expected to name a player-manager for the club, which replaces Greensburg, Pa., in the league. At least four Cleveland rookies and five of Greensburg's players will form the nucleus of the team. Warren opens May 12.

Dodgers Hope Roy Cullenbine Hits Against Nationals Too

ASHLAND, Ky.—The Brooklyn Dodgers are hoping that Roy Cullenbine, their extensive outfielder, isn't just an American leaguer who saves all his best performances against rivals from that circuit. Against the Yankees, he clouted a homer and a single that helped score another run yesterday and contributed a fielding gem when he snatched George Selkirk's liner off the fence.

* * *

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Paul Derringer is scheduled to go the full distance on the mound for the Cincinnati Reds against the Boston Red Sox today in their final spring encounter. Bad weather in Florida and on the way north has kept the Reds' pitchers from rounding into form. Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, with the same sort of troubles, called upon Denny Galehouse, Emerson Dickman and Jim Bagby, jr., to split the mound chores.

* * *

OWENSBORO, Ky. — Spud Davis, former Philadelphia catcher, is definitely No. 1 catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates now while Ray Mueller, for whom they paid some $35,000 to Boston, may be sent to the minors.

* * *

TARBORO, N. C. Shortstop Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians, who returned to the lineup for yesterday's game with the New York Giants, said afterwards he "couldn't even feel" the ankle which laid him up for three weeks because of a chipped bone. The Giants called upon Carl Hubbell today in an effort to check Cleveland's clouting.

Mansfielder In Semi-Finals of Boston AAU Classic

BOSTON — Battling for an honor no other Mansfield youth has ever held, Beauford Glover, dusky lightweight, had smashed his way to the semi-finals of the National A. A. U. tournament here today.

The crack 135-pounder, seeking the National championship, advanced last night by decisioning LeRoy Collier of Albany, N. Y.

Both boys started out willingly and the fast pace continued through the first round with neither holding a great advantage. Glover rallied in the second, scoring frequently and tying up his rugged opponent effectively.

By the third round the fast pace was telling on both fighters, but Glover managed to keep his edge most of the way. He got in several good belts in this heat, but Collier weathered each flurry and came back for more.

Glover, a member of the Cleveland Golden Gloves championship team, was one of three of the Lake city group scoring triumphs last night.

John Lawer, welterweight, eliminated LeRoy Furst of Omaha, Neb., and Joey Maxin, brilliant middleweight, moved into the semi-finals by stopping Neil Kinney of Hartman, Ark., in the second round.

The other Cleveland member boxing in the quarter-finals, Max Schindler, 126, of Lorain, fell out of the meet when he was knocked out by Frank Robinson of Oil City, Pa. It happened in the second round.

Glover will see action tonight in the semi-finals and finals. If he comes through with flying colors it will mark the first time a Mansfield amateur has ever held such an honor. Glover returns home Saturday.

Louis Says He Doesn't Care About Money

Interested Only In Getting His Michigan Dude Ranch Going, Joe Claims.

NEW YORK—(INS)—No, sir, Joe Louis doesn't care a thing about money any more. Not a thing. Even if he makes only a "measly" $100,000 this year, it won't ruffle his feelings any more than Johnny Paychek did.

"All I'm interested in right now," said the heavyweight boss today, "is to get my dude ranch going good at Utica, Mich.

"I've got 477 acres out there—paid $37,000 for the land alone—and a lot of cabins on the property. I hope to open up next month and that's why I hope Mike Jacobs will put one of my fights on in Detroit I'd like to fight here in June or July and fight out there in September."

* * *

* * *

What about the rumors that he intended to retire? "Who, me? Say, I won't be 26 till next month and I ain't going to quit for years. Why should I?"

Well, why did he want to continue fighting? He laughed. "Just for three reasons. I like to fight. I want to go on making expenses because it costs me more than $25,000 a year to live. And I don't want to get fat."

What's next on the program? "Well, next month I'm going to make a series of 18 moving pictures. I'm going to take the part of a G-man, and I understand there's going to be a fight in one of the serials."

Who's going to be the movie ring opponent—Paychek? "Paychek? Shucks, no. I said this was going to be a fight."

NEW YORK—(AP)—Indianapolis has feelers out for a lightweight title match. . . . They want the Sammy Angott-Davey Day winner to meet the Lou Ambers-Lew Jenkins winner on the eve of the Memorial day 500-mile speed classic. . . . Most of the golfing big shots are killing time until the $5,000 Goodall round robin tournament next month by playing exhibitions in the south.

Jimmy Demaret won $7,652 in tournament money last winter. . . . Actually, his golf earnings doubled that. . . . Jimmy is pretty much of a home boy. . . . So, in order to get him out of Houston, the manufacturer whose clubs he plays offered to match every dollar he won.

The Yanks left Owensboro (Ky.) in the Kitty league voting the field there one of the finest in the south. . . . Banks McFadden, Clemson's great back, has low blood pressure and probably couldn't play pro football next fall if he wanted to. . . . After patrolling the gardens in 27 exhibition games, Hank Greenberg said: "I hope they never ask me to play first base again."

20 Men Report Today

Hurlers, Catchers Move Into Wigwam at Fairground For First Session.

By CHARLES MARTIN

SOME 20 hurlers and catchers descended on the Mansfield Braves' wigwam today to launch spring training sessions at the Fairground under the watchful eyes of Manager Dewey Stover.

With practically a complete new roster reporting for the session, Stover faces a difficult task in selecting the mound and backstop staffs to carry the burden in the Ohio State league race.

Heading the list of returning veterans is Bob Arnold. A right-hander, Arnold was a regular with the Mansfield club last season until he suffered a knee injury when struck by a line drive.

Arnold arrived yesterday and announced to Stover that he is in top shape and ready to fight for a regular berth.

Lloyd Joyce, another member of the 1939 pitching corps, will be back this season, but is not expected to see much action on the hill. Joyce, who will not arrive in camp until Wednesday, April 24, is after the trainer's job.

Joe Sandra, a catcher hailing from Chicago, also arrived here yesterday. He comes well-recommended and Stover will watch his progress with interest.

George Laurila of Newberry, Mich., who was a first string moundsman last year was expected at noon today. Laurila was wild last season but has informed Stover he has corrected the weakness.

The 14 youngsters Stover picked from the rookie school conducted by the Braves last week are on hand for the sessions. Outfielders and infielders among the group were not supposed to start training until the balance of the team comes in a week from today, but the Braves' chief is retaining them.

A break in the weather will enable the advanced guard to be in first class form when the other portion of the club reports.

RESERVES INVADE BUCYRUS

Mansfield high's Red Streak Reserves squad will open its season Saturday when it invades Bucyrus to take on the Redmen in a dual meet at the Bucyrus high school field.

Will Stage 'Moose Night' For Mansfield Braves.

The Moose lodge will stage a "Moose night" at the Fairground Monday, May 6, Joe C. Hartline, Mansfield Braves president stated today. It will be the Braves' second home game and they will entertain the Tiffin Mud Hens. Hartline was a guest at a Moose lodge dinner at the Moose home last night and spoke briefly on the Mansfield club's prospects.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(UP)—The New York racing season opens at Jamaica next Monday afternoon, and while the program hasn't been formally announced I am quite sure it will include the following events:

The State Senators' Handicap.
The Grab Bag Gallop.
The Wardheelers' Stake.

* * *

If this card surprises you, then you obviously haven't kept abreast of political activities in New York state since the Dunnigan bill legalizing pari-mutuel betting was passed. Everybody making a living off the voters' money has risen to a point of motion on some assembly floor and suggested a ways and means of getting more of the voters' money by taxing the pari-mutuel play.

* * *

With a 10 per cent "bite" on the bettors' money already agreed upon, plus the genteel larceny known as "breakage," the politicians still aren't satisfied. Only yesterday a member of the New York City council proposed that each track be taxed $1,000 per race, per day, per meeting, per season.

There is the chance that the politicians may become greedy for the purses awarded winning horses and decide to run for the purses themselves. I would vote for such a change myself provided all jockeys riding the politicians were allowed rowel spurs and cat o' nine tail whips.

When the bookmakers were in operation there was much crying because the usually offered 2 to 5, out and out, on any 3 to 1 shot. But now, under the mutuels, that may seem like the purest philanthropy. Because by the time the state government, the federal government, the county government, the city government, the district government, the ward government, the borough government, the government by, for and of the people—and probably Judge Landis—all get through slicing thmselves a piece of change, the $2 win ticket will undoubtedly return minus 40 cents.

Only the sucker will study the form chart and pick the winner. A loser will lose only his $2 investment. A winner, however, will lose his $2 investment, the minus 40 cent charge for handling the winning transaction, and perhaps, a 10 per cent surcharge on his handicapping skill.

* * *

The usual racetrack sob story of "I can't pick my hat," will be changed to this cry of despair:

"If I win just one more I'll have to walk home."

This will affect the tout sheets and racing form. Instead of tipping Seabiscuits, Kayaks, Challedons, and Bimelechs, these publication will advertise sure losers.

Prospect Good For '41 Team

Boston May Have Grid Club In National Next Year.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Prospects for a national football league team in Boston this year are remote but the possibility of one operating there next year is good, it was said at league headquarters today.

* * *

If Francis Ouimet and a syndicate wish to get quick action in the purchase of a club, as reported, it was suggested that either the Pittsburgh Pirates or the Philadelphia Eagles might be bought, if the price were right.

* * *

This question probably will come up at the annual league meetings scheduled here for Friday, Saturday and Sunday. The election of a president and adoption of a schedule also will be considered.

Mack Improves, Adds To Cleveland Hopes

Indians Boast Strongest 2nd Base Combination In Last 15 Years of Baseball.

TARBORO, N. C.—(UP)—Steady improvement at bat by Ray Mack, young second baseman, today practically erased the last doubt about the 1940 Cleveland Indians boasting their strongest second base combination in 15 years.

Breaking into the Indian lineup late last season, Mack was so weak at the plate that he literally hit less than his weight in 36 games (.152 against 190 pounds)

* * *

The fielding of Ray and Lou Boudreau, his shortstop buddy, around the keystone sack left nothing to be desired but Manager Oscar Vitt was worried this spring for fear Mack wouldn't be able to hit above .200.

* * *

That fear was all but removed yesterday when Ray climaxed patient hitting improvement with two home runs and a double that drove in seven runs as the Indians walloped the New York Giants, 14 to 1.

Mack's long range slugging coincided with the return to action of Boudreau who played five innings after being sidelined by an ankle injury for three weeks. Boudreau accepted five chances without a bobble and helped along a double play to remove any doubt about his readiness for the opening game next Tuesday.

The Tribe looked like pennant contenders all the way yesterday. Bob Feller and Johnny Allen starved the Giants with only four hits for eight innings and Joe Dobson held them hitless in the final frame. Feller now has held the Giants without a run for 11 successive innings.

Al Smith and Johnny Humphries were the likely Indian hurlers today in opposition to Carl Hubbell for the Terrymen.

Whippets Open Track Season

Invade Ashland for Initial Dual Cinder Meet.

SHELBY—Shelby high school opens its 1940 track schedule Saturday by invading Ashland to face Ashland high's track team in a dual meet.

* * *

Only five veterans from last year's team returned to the Shelby squad this year. These lettermen and the events they take part in are William Yosick, broadjump; Richard Whitney, 440-yard dash; Paul Stroup and Dean Hunter, 220-yard low hurdles and Bob Lehman, discus.

* * *

The complete track schedule for Shelby follows: Apr. 13, at Ashland; Apr. 19, Bucyrus; Apr. 27, Mansfield relays; May 4, North Central Ohio league track meet at Ashland. May 8, at Mansfield reserves. May 14, Mansfield reserves and May 17, district meet at Mansfield.

Sutphin to Attend Toronto Meeting

CLEVELAND—(INS)—President Al Sutphin of the Cleveland Barons will arrive in Toronto, Ont., today for the annual meeting of hockey team owners in the National and International-American leagues.

The two leagues were expected to have heated arguments over two major points, a new contract governing drafting of players, and a territorial dispute that arose when Buffalo was granted a franchise in the International-American league last winter.

Singles Are of Champ Caliber

Six Men Go Over Coveted 700 Mark at A. B. C.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—While the scoring in the team, doubles and all-event divisions of the American Bowling Congress continues to miss fire, the singles class is up to championship caliber.

* * *

With the tournament entering its thirty-fifth day of competition, six men have beaten the coveted 700 mark.

* * *

Steve Kulka, a stocky little left-handed Detroiter, fired a 704 solo series last night for fifth place.

Mike Ulisky of Kittanning, Pa., who approaches the foul line with his right foot in front, took seventh place with 700.

John Kuenn and Duly Smith of Sixconsin Rapids, Wis., hit 1287 for fifth in the doubles while the Walter Miller-Arlie Smith team of Hicksville, O., scored 1283 for sixth. Team leaders remained unchanged.

WORCESTER, Mass.—Maurice (The Angel) Tillet, 226 France, threw Leo Numa 225, Seattle Wash., two straight falls.

Officials Suspend Tulsa Heavyweight

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Indian Jim Merritt, Tulsa heavyweight, is under indefinite suspension by the Pennsylvania athletic commission for his poor showing Monday night against Jim Thompson, Pittsburgh negro.

* * *

Thompson floored the Indian twice in the first round and knocked him out after 15 seconds of the second.

* * *

Merritt was scheduled to fight Lee Savold, ranking contender, Thursday night in Johnstown but Matchmaker Dave Polis for said Irish Eddie Boyle of Cleveland had been substituted.

HOLMES GETS POST

DAYTON (AP) — Howard E. (Cocky) Holmes, former manager of Dayton in the Middle Atlantic baseball league, was named yesterday to succeed Ed Barrow, Ark., club in the Class C Arkansas-Missouri circuit. It was announced today.

TRADERS MOVE ACTIVELY TODAY ON 'WAR MART'

Stock Prices Sent in Both Directions by Baffling Reports on Conflict.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Baffled by conflicting interpretations of the fast-breaking Scandinavian war news, traders moved actively today in operations which sent stock prices in both directions.

Up were International Paper & Power, Union Bag & Paper, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Armour and Boeing. Down were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors and U. S. Rubber.

Bonds were equally mixed. Commodities were lower. Wheat at Chicago slumped. Foreign markets strengthened at their close. The British pound slipped around a cent.

Declines in three standard indices of industrial activity caused many market analysts to adopt a cautious attitude toward bullish tendencies. They pointed to an estimate that revenue freight carloadings in the week ended April 6 dropped, the Associated Press index of electric power production for the same week declined to a new 1940 low, and the steel production rate dropped again.

Speed and Efficiency of Occupation Stuns Danes

GERMANS CUT DENMARK OFF FROM WORLD

Nazi Troops Established in Copenhagen and Other Strategic Points.

(Editor's Note: This is the first dispatch received directly from Copenhagen since the German occupation of Denmark.)

By HAROLD PETERS
(UP Staff Correspondent)

COPENHAGEN — German troops were established firmly in Copenhagen and in large portions of the remainder of the country, including all strategic points, today after an occupation which stunned the Danes with its speed and efficiency.

Denmark has been cut off from the outside world since 5 a. m. Tuesday when foreign troops for the first time in Danish history entered Copenhagen itself.

According to complete reports now available, German troops reached their objectives in Denmark with only very slight instances of friction and bloodshed.

The country pursued its business in virtually normal fashion on the second day of the occupation. There was a compulsory black-out last night.

Business Normal.

Most Danes appeared resigned to the occupation, apparently believing that it had to come eventually.

There were unconfirmed reports that there had been heavy fighting south of Jutland where it was reported that a small detachment of a couple of hundred Danish soldiers resisted. Several were reported to have been killed in the fighting which occurred because the order not to resist the German occupation had not reached them in time.

German sources said that only 12 persons had been killed throughout Denmark in the course of the occupation.

The government of Premier Th. Stauning remained in power. Stauning, however, announced that he hoped to form a national union cabinet.

PLAN REUNION

Company M Members to Hold Dinner Program Saturday.

On the 21st anniversary of their discharge from service in the World war, members of Company M association, will hold their annual reunion at the Southern hotel Saturday night with a dinner and program of reminiscences.

Plans for the reunion were made last night when the Mansfield members met at Memorial building. Several out of town members of the old company are expected to attend.

Company M, formerly the old Eighth Ohio National Guard, is made up of men who served in the World war, the Mexican expedition and the Spanish-American war. The association was formed June 10, 1919, soon after the "boys came home" from overseas, when they got together for a smoker. It was decided then to make an annual affair of the reunion. This will be the 21st event.

Several of the men in the association were at Santiago when the Spanish surrendered to the United States. The only living officer of the company who was in Cuba during the war is Captain Charles Hughes of Mansfield.

During the World war the company was brigaded with the 37th division. There will be no outside speakers Saturday night and the program will be given over largely to reminiscences.

FUTURE BRIGHT

Westinghouse President Sees It 'Very Encouraging.'

George H. Bucher, president of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., told stockholders at the annual meeting in Pittsburgh today that the business outlook was "very encouraging."

He reported orders during the first quarter totaled $65 250.000 as compared with $50.121.000 in the corresponding period last year. The company's backlog of unfilled orders on March 31 was approximately $83.000.000, an all-time high figure.

Bucher said foreign business was up 33 per cent, sales to public utilities up 50, and sales to industrial concerns up 30.

RAIN TONIGHT

And City May Get in on Tail of West's Cold Wave.

Spring played a return engagement in the Mansfield area today but the weatherman predicted that the balmy breezes which hiked the temperature to 50 degrees at noon would be short-lived.

The forecast said there would be rain tonight and that it would be warmer, turning cooler Thursday.

There was a likelihood that Mansfield may be swept with the tail end of a cold wave which was moving in from Canada today. Rain and snow was predicted for the midwest and a drop in temperature to the freezing point was promised in Chicago tomorrow, dispatches said.

Reaching a high of 40 degrees in Mansfield yesterday, the mercury skidded to 25, seven degrees below freezing last night. At 10 a. m. it had risen to 47, and at noon it was up to 50 degrees. The average temperature during the past 24 hours was 37, eight degrees below normal.

BRUSSELS—(UP)—Belgian military leaves were cancelled after an extraordinary meeting of the cabinet today. The leaves were cancelled amidst wholly unconfirmed rumors that the French and British had requested the right to send troops across Belgium.

BERLIN—(UP)—Authorized sources today said that German forces have occupied Hamar, the provisional seat of government to which Norwegian authorities fled from Oslo yesterday.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Norwegian legation said today that it had received apparently authentic word that the Norwegian government had decided to continue to resist the German invasion.

LONDON—(UP)—The Oslo radio today urged the Norwegian population and local authorities to cease resistance to the German invasion. The station, now under German control, defended the German action.

STOCKHOLM—(INS)—British planes have bombed an airdrome at Majorstuen, near Oslo, the newspaper Aftonbladet reported today from Oslo.

THE HAGUE, the Netherlands—(AP)—Netherlands defense measures were stepped up today and her street lights kept blazing night and day to show warring powers that the lowland nation is not a blacked-out belligerent. Military defense measures seemed to be as great as those taken last November when the Netherlands prepared to open her dikes if necessary to repel an invasion.

TURKS WORRIED

Balkan Agreement With Allies Being Considered.

ISTANBUL, Turkey — (AP) — Turkish officials said today that there was a movement in Turkish government circles in favor of calling a conference to line up Rumania, Greece and Yugoslavia on the side of the Allies. These three, with Turkey, make up the Balkan entente.

The officials said that Germany's invasion of Scandinavia demonstrated the futility of small nations trying to be neutral and justified Turkey's position as "not neutral but merely non-belligerent."

SUPPORT CIVIC MOVES, APPEAL TO MERCHANTS

150 Businessmen Challenged to Back Community Fund, Other Projects in City.

A vigorous challenge to support the Mansfield Community Fund campaign and to back civic projects in general was hurled jointly at local merchants by George W. Stephens, president of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, and C. L. VanDerau, manager of manufacturing at Westinghouse, in a meeting at 10 a. m. today in the Mansfield-Leland ball room. The Community Fund drives opens April 29.

About 150 businessmen heard Stephens declare: "Our job is looking after Mansfield."

He emphasized the fact that good-will is as important to business as to industry, and ranked its importance as equal to productivity in the individual worker.

"Supporting the organizations maintained through the Community fund is one of the best ways of obtaining good will for your business," he asserted. "These organizations are something we certainly wouldn't want to get along without."

Van Dereau predicted a million dollar industrial expansion for the city during the present year and joined Stephens in urging businessmen to spike false rumors about local industry.

"We are not going to have any Flint or Detroit situation here," he predicted, urging business, professional and manufacturing people to "pool their efforts" to keep Mansfield looking ahead.

Pointing to the city's inadequate sewer, water, fire protection, and police systems he indicated that the Community Fund drive was a good place to start in the pooling of efforts.

Van Derau said the drive could be completed in 24 hours with a little "interest, effort, and arithmetic." He explained that the drive is consumated quickly at Westinghouse by setting up departmental quotas of approximately five per cent of payrolls and yet keeping all contributions wholly voluntary.

Both speakers were introduced by R. M. Calene, president of the Retail Merchants association, who had called the meeting. C. K. Smaltz, chairman of the Community Fund drive, was also introduced to the group.

'GUESS' METHOD OF THE CENSUS TAKER FUN FOR MANSFIELDERS

Final results of the 1940 decennial census, when they are finally compiled and published, will be looked at askance by a number of Mansfield persons at least.

Apparently only a small number of Mansfield residents have been personally contacted on the census, regardless of how many census returns have been filed.

A check among city officials this morning failed to reveal any who had been personally contacted, and only one said his home had been contacted by a census taker. A check on several business places also brought the same answer. "We haven't been 'censused' as yet." A great many persons said they had never been contacted in this or on any of the federal censuses of the past.

Some amusing incidents—amusing to the persons questioned but the government may not find them amusing—came to light today as Mansfielders told of the methods used by census takers.

A prominent Mansfield couple have been included in the census by "remote control." He is in business and she follows a profession, conducting their affairs separately. The census taker called at their home after they had gone to their offices yesterday morning and took their census from the maid.

"How much does your boss and his wife make?" he asked the girl. She told him she didn't know and he said "Never mind, I can fill that in myself." Their ages, the mortgage on their home and other personal questions were "filled in" in the same manner.

One well known Mansfield man, when questioned as to his income, told the girl, "It's under $5,000 a year," and that's the way she filled in his blank. (Incomes over $5,000 may be answered in that manner, but not those under.)

Several persons said they had not been asked the questions about the bathroom, radios or electric ice boxes which are listed on the census questionnaires. One Mansfield housewife refused to answer the question on the mortgage on the home and the woman census taker said: "Then I'll just have to guess at it."

NAZIS SEEKING OIL TANK FLEET

Germany Nears Possession of Third Largest Fleet.

TULSA—(AP)—Germany's thrust into Scandinavia has brought her within striking distance of control of the third largest fleet of oil tankers in the world.

Norway, with North Sea routes to Central America's oil supplies, has 262 tankers in her registry, with a total tonnage of 2,957,000. This is exceeded only by Great Britain and the United States.

It is possible, however, that Scandinavian ships may transfer to Panama registry.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1940.

Is it just that the census-taker hasn't been around yet—or is the Gallup poll system of percentages being used?

Among the welcome signs of spring, don't overlook the repair gangs filling up the holes left in the roads by Old Man Winter.

According to Senator Vandenberg it will take until the year 2000 to pay off the national debt—but that may merely be putting it in round numbers.

Era of Untrained Motorists

WHEN it is considered that safety education is a development of recent years, and that therefore very little attention had been paid to competency of motorists, the heavy traffic toll of the past decade is not surprising—in fact the amazing thing is that there hasn't been more fatalities and serious injuries.

Crossing at any Mansfield street intersection where there is a traffic light, and noting the obvious ignorance of a large percentage of drivers who make either a right or left turn in total disregard of the rights of pedestrians on the crossing at the time, it is realized that these drivers merely "picked up" whatever they know about operating a car and have no knowledge of traffic regulations or the ordinary rules of safe driving.

In an adequately policed city, of course, such practices would be quickly stopped, along with the habitual double parking, disregard of traffic lights and stop signs, and the excessive speed common to residence streets.

But even without policing it becomes a habit of a large majority of properly trained drivers to voluntarily conform to traffic regulations and speed limits, recognizing these as reasonable restrictions intended to contribute to the safety and convenience of themselves as well as others.

A pamphlet recently issued by the American Automobile Association shows that twenty-three states now require safety education in the schools, either by law or by regulation of the state education department: that forty-three states have courses of study on safety education, and that eight require teacher-training courses of study on safety education. Another pamphlet is devoted to driver education and training for high school teachers, including detailed suggestions for classrooms activities, instruction behind the wheel and driving skill tests.

As time and experience have opportunity to operate in solution of present traffic problems it appears reasonable to assume that another ten years will bring considerable progress in highway safety—including restriction of driving privileges to those who demonstrate competence and dependable sobriety.

Care In Spending Public Money

A BUSINESSLIKE attitude was evidenced this week when the city board of control, consisting of Mayor Locke and Service-Safety Director Crafton rejected bids for 250 new water meters, after being informed that one of the bidders had sold a smaller number of meters to another city at lower cost.

While the difference, in this instance, may seem small, the principle involved is worthy of note, in view of past experiences in making purchases on a preferential basis without regard to economical expenditure of public funds.

It may be entirely clear, in some instances, that the lowest bid is not always the "best," and it is quite within reason that officials authorized to make purchases should be permitted to exercise judgment as to what constitutes the "lowest and best" bid when there are differences in quality and probable durability of material or equipment.

Identical bids, such as are sometimes submitted, and acceptance of higher bids, which has not been uncommon in the past, are almost always subject to suspicion and should at least be satisfactorily explained to those who provide the funds.

There is no legitimate reason why a city, or other political subdivision, should pay more for material, equipment or supplies than the price asked from individuals or private business firms, and a part of the responsibility resting upon officials entrusted with making purchases is to be sure that a dollar in value is received for every dollar of public money expended.

Such action as was taken by Mr. Locke and Mr. Crafton in the matter of water meter bids tends to inspire confidence that this is the intent of the present city administration.

Home Problems Are First Concern

THE manager of a popular forum in the Middle West is discouraged because the public keeps demanding "lectures on Ethiopia, Finland and other lands, rather than on ridding our city of crime, our streets of traffic hazards, and our alleys of garbage."

"I do not minimize the importance of what is taking place in foreign lands," he says. "But surely the problems involved in operating a city and making it a decent place in which to live and rear children, are, to say the least, of equal importance."

It is true that we need to be informed on world affairs. It has been learned from experience that we are not isolated from Europe, Asia or Africa, but that what happens in remote parts of the earth often affects us.

Yet our most important problems do begin at home—bringing up our own children as well as we know how, making our own city as efficient and enlightened a community as possible, understanding our country's government and basic law and making them work better. Are not these the problems that should concern intelligent Americans first, with the affairs of other parts of the world added to them as the interests of the whole community are added to the special interests of the individual family?

Smoothing Out Roadways

QUEST for safety on our highways leads to improvements people never thought of until lately. The general tendency is to smooth out the entire roadway area, from fence to fence, as nearly as possible.

Projecting concrete abutments at the ends of culverts are knocked off so that people won't run into them. Likewise low walls on concrete or wood along the edges of highways are being removed, because too often, instead of keeping the driver from running off the road, they put him in a ditch upside down. It is often better to run into the ditch right side up, experts say, than to run the risk of such impractical safeguards.

Some folks think the country is going to the dogs—but it may be merely barking up the wrong tree.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The census-takers are certain of one thing: They'll find more persons 9 years old in the United States than any other age. In 1930, the greatest number of persons the same age was found in the 8-year-old class, but it's moved up a year since then.

Note to the Linton Chamber of Commerce, Greene county, Indiana: You may lose the distinction of being the center of population in the United States. Estimates here are the population center will move 5 to 40 miles south and west. That might throw it into Sullivan or Knox counties; or even across the state line into Illinois, say in Crawford or Lawrence counties. If you're good neighbors around there, maybe you can show the folks how to make the most of their "Heart-of-America" publicity campaign.

If Horace Greeley were saying it today, he probably would put it this way: "Go west young woman, if you want to get married." The percentage of men to women is far greater in the western states. Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana, Idaho all are prime "marriage states," with the surplus males running something like this: In Montana, 127 men to every 100 women; in Nevada, 123 to 100. As for cities, new industrial centers, like Detroit, are good marriage towns. San Francisco is another one. But stay away from Hollywood and Washington if you're out to catch a husband. The odds there are against you.

* * *

Bad News For Women.

WHILE we are on the marriage subject—the 1940 census certainly is going to contain bad news for the ladies. For about 30 years, the surplus of males in the country (once well over 2,000,000 has been steadily declining and this year probably will drop to half a million.

Although in an aging civilization, there are (and don't ask me why) more male babies than females born, the rate of "consumption" is greater for the men. More men die from accidents and disease. Add to this, the declining immigration, which always is predominantly male, and you have the answer. Observers are "viewing with alarm." They say if the trend continues, there'll be more women than men in the country before 1950. Instead of men hunting wives, it will be women hunting husbands. A little thing like that can turn the social pattern of a nation upside down.

* * *

Bad News For—?

WHAT the census-takers' tallies are going to do in some cities and states is going to make big local news, if not national. In Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for instance, if the population goes over a certain point, the mayor and aldermen get a raise in pay.

A number of states have liquor laws, basing the number of saloons in localities on population. If those localities gain, there'll be pubs where there were no pubs before . . . and if they lose, the saloon-keepers will have to draw straws to see who goes out of business.

Of course, there's the matter of state representation in the House of Representatives, but that's another story—probably the biggest that will come out of the 1940 census. Reapportionment is a political bombshell and when the figures are all in, national and local party machines will start tossing the political T. N. T. about wildly as they angle for the advantages of new representation setups.

One thing more: People who refuse to have their noses counted are just cutting them off to spite somebody. Federal highway funds, relief and a number of other national benefactions are based on the census. Enough dodgers in any locality or state and it's going to be money out of the neighbor's pockets.

THE PRODUCT OF A MISGUIDED YOUTH

Listen, World!

Do Not Lie To Yourself.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE is no use pretending—or trying to kid me—that you can tell the truth all the time.

Truth is the most powerful dynamite on earth, and few of us can or should use it with ungloved hands. Most of us—for our own security or pity for the other fellow—must temper it or tramp it down.

But there is one place in life where you must be ruthlessly truthful or face tragic consequences. And that is with yourself.

IF YOU LIE TO YOURSELF YOU ARE LOST.

You may dissemble society—

You may pretty-up facts to your husband or your wife—

You may soften down reality to your child—

You may even juggle statistics with the census taker—

BUT IF YOU LIE TO YOURSELF YOU'RE LOST.

There are many "confidence games" in this world and all of them crooked. Many games that take a sucker for a ride. But there is no game that takes a sucker for as complete and devastating a ride as the lies he tells himself.

Fool the world if you think you must—or haven't the courage to show yourself as you are. But when you're alone with yourself, face the truth about yourself. If you're mean, admit you're mean. If you're a coward—admit you're yellow. If you're a Judas Iscariot, admit that any thirty pieces of silver can buy you. If you're a sadist, admit you'd rather see other people's pain that bear any yourself.

Why should you admit these things? Because unless you admit them you're a fade-out. You'll not only take the other fellow for a ride but you'll take yourself for one. Your only hope in this world—or the next—lies in facing the low-down about yourself.

Hard to do? Of course it is. And it's nothing to me, pardner, whether you do it or don't. But as one who has kidded herself plenty I'm telling you this—

IT'S YOUR ONLY CHANCE FOR SURVIVAL.

Life has gone on for a long time in ever-varying forms. There were the great winged lizards. There was the monstrous Brontosaurus. There were endless monsters roaming a manless earth. Yet they passed. Why did they pass? They passed because they couldn't face the truth about their own weakness and the pressure of their own environment.

All things will pass that cannot face the truth.

If you want to pass, just go on kidding yourself that you're a nice, sweet, refined human being and that everyone else is to blame for your misfortunes.

Timely Editorial

Populace Spreads Out.

Depression-scarred families, forced to huddle up with friends and relatives during the early part of the terrifying 30's, are still pouring out of hibernation and finding brand-new homes for themselves.

More than 250,000 families are going to move into their own homes this spring, according to estimates of the United States Savings and Loan league. Last year the number of families that forsook rented dwellings was 190,000 and in 1936 it was 100,000. But, despite the increasing number of home owners, apartment house owners and landlords of flats needn't fear a dearth of tenants. The nation is still letting out its belt.

Experts have said that it will take many years of persistent effort to bring about adequate housing for everybody. With the increasing trend toward home ownership, it appears we are slowly heading toward that goal.—Newark Advocate.

Ohio Anecdotes

School For Girls.

MISS SUSANNAH WELLES advertised in the Columbus, O., Journal and Register about 1808 that she intended to open a "school for young ladies"—an unusual thing in that day. The curriculum included subjects common to English education.

Miss Welles explained she intended to use modern, improved educational methods of teaching, and that classes would meet in the basement of the Baptist church.

Particular attention would be paid to the morals of the girls intrusted to her care, the advertisement read. She cited references to vouch for her sincerity in the venture.

At the same time, it was announced the co-educational school of Blendon would continue under direction of Eleazer and S. W. Washburn. English, Latin, Greek and arithmetic were included in the Washburn school curriculum.

Drugs That Cause Skin Eruptions.

—By DR. CLENDENING

What drugs cause eruptions on the skin?

Drugs may cause skin eruptions from over-dosage or from allergic manifestations, in other words, hypersensitiveness. In the latter case, very small amounts of drugs will cause the eruption.

Skin eruption from the use of drugs may appear very mysterious and their real nature overlooked because the connection between the eruption and the long-continued use of the drug is not considered. This is particularly true of bromide eruption; those who take bromides over a long period of time to quiet their nerves or to induce sleep, break out with an eruption in the form of pimples (looks like acne), which may appear on the face, legs or indeed, any part of the skin. In trying to figure out what causes this eruption they never think of the sleeping tablets.

Treatment is to stop the bromides and to replace them by use of common table salt until the eruption disappears.

Iodides or iodine-containing drugs may do the same thing. Many people who are carelessly trying to treat themselves for thyroid disease by taking iodized salt break out with these iodide rashes.

Quinine produces a hemorrhagic eruption under the skin.

Phenolphthalein is another drug frequently taken habitually in the form of candy laxatives. This produces an eruption of large, oval, red spots on the skin. The victim may not have the slightest idea that this eruption is connected with his cathartic habit.

Aspirin, in people who are sensitive to it, produces an eruption after even tiny doses.

Many drugs recently introduced are so useful that we have to risk their skin eruption. Examples are the new drugs, sulfanilimide and sulfapyridine.

What is the value of cheese as an article of diet?

Cheese has high food value. It is one of our chief sources of calcium. American cheese contains about 0.7 per cent of calcium. Swiss cheese about 1 per cent. Cheese also contains much vitamin A. One pound of cheese furnishes over 2,000 calories and represents the proteins and fats of about a gallon of milk. Cheese even takes the place of meat because its proteins are complete. One ounce of cheese equals two eggs or eight ounces of milk or three ounces of meat.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

The World of Pretense.

The world of pretense closes in
About us; we must say
And do just this and that, just this
And that, upon this day.

And we must walk and talk as is Prescribed, for custom holds
The line, stern and immovable,
Speech, acts, and lives she molds.

The world of pretense ever is
About us, grim and sure.
It is the hardest thing of all
That we, in life, endure.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—You don't hear much about him in the presidential sweepstakes, but one man worth keeping your eye on these days is Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

There have been two significant developments which may mean something to the future destiny of New York's "Little Flower."

First, it was no accident that he took himself out of the Illinois Republican primary. LaGuardia didn't want to be stamped definitely as a Republican. As a matter of fact, LaGuardia was first elected to congress as a Republican, and later was defeated by a Tammany Democrat. But in his mayoralty campaigns he has always received as much support from Progressive Democrats as from Republicans.

Actually LaGuardia is a Roosevelt New Dealer, and the President has talked to him about the possibility of getting on the New Deal 1940 ticket.

Second, LaGuardia has made peace with Tammany. Or perhaps it would be more correct to say that Tammany has made peace with LaGuardia.

* * *

Tammany Strategy.

THIS is extremely significant. For seven years Tammany bosses have been ready to give their eye-teeth to defeat the Little Flower. He is the last man they want running New York City. Therefore, they would be delighted to "promote' him—make him vice president of the United States or even president, provided only that he be promoted out of New York City.

So LaGuardia can count upon the full support of Tammany to get the vice-presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket at Chicago next summer.

If the Democrats should nominate Hull or anyone else from the South or West, they would need a good strong Easterner on the ticket. LaGuardia probably is the only man who could carry the all-important state of New York against Tom Dewey.

Note—Not to be lost sight of is the fact that Jack Garner and LaGuardia are old pals, dating from their association in the house of representatives, and have a genuine affection for each other. Garner calls the Mayor "Frijole," and would deliver his delegates to him, whereas he would never deliver them to Bob Jackson or another out-and-out New Dealer.

* * *

Roosevelt and Hoover.

FDR is on good terms with many of the Republican presidential candidates and party leaders (Landon, Knox, McNary, Joe Martin, Taft, Vandenberg) but there still is no great love lost between him and his Republican predecessor, Herbert Hoover.

Some time ago, Robert R. Gros, young Democrat leader from Palo Alto, Calif., went to see the president, and Roosevelt, knowing Gros came from Hoover's home town, asked how the ex-president was.

"Oh, we're keeping him under control," replied Gros.

"Oh, no, you're not," shot back the president. "You're letting him come east too much."

* * *

"Unfit" Navy.

THE action of the Navy Selection Board in retiring eleven outstanding flyers—when the admirals were wailing on Capitol Hill that there weren't enough pilots to man planes under the expansion program—was only one example of the incomprehensible aberrations of the navy's promotion system.

In 1938, Lt. Commander Clarence V. Conlon, aged 39, was "passed over" by the Selection Board as unfit for promotion. Conlon was then commanding the gunboat Monocacy on the Yangtze river, coping with Chinese mines and marauders on the surface and Japanese bombers in the air.

So well did Conlon carry out his delicate mission that on the recommendation of Admiral Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, then commander of the Asiatic Fleet, he was awarded the Navy Cross for distinguished service.

Thus it happened that a few months after the Selection Board of brass-hats, sitting in Washington, had ruled him unfit for promotion and thereby marked him down for retirement, Conlon, 6,000 miles away on the firing line, was being decorated for "exceptional personal courage, a high degree of leadership and signal administrative ability in commanding his ship under trying circumstances. . . ."

While the anomaly of decorating for distinguished service a man who had been "passed over" by the Selection Board may not have seemed strange to the brasshats, it did to Secretary Edison. He ordered a special Selection Board to reconsider Conlon's case. This time Conlon was pronounced "best fitted" for promotion and raised to the rank of commander.

Note—Interrogated about the navy promotion system by a house committee, Rear Admiral Chester Nimitz, chief of the bureau of navigation, admitted, "I do not attempt to deny in any way that competent officers are being retired through the selection system." The committee also brought out that of 140 officers who had been dropped by the Selective Board and recently recalled to active duty, only 13 had ben retired on physical grounds.

* * *

FDR and Finns.

THE Finnish war has been over for about a month now, but those who have mentioned it to the president still find him sore at the manner in which the Finns were let down.

Suggestions to Roosevelt that Russia was merely defending herself against future attack, and getting back a small part of its previous territory, cause him to explode.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

JACK GARNERITES have been flooding the country with newspaper boiler plate. Several thousand small weeklies have been getting it. . . . While the Democratic national committee is bogged down, the Republican national committee is working at top speed, putting out all sorts of literature, taking advantage of every Democratic slip. . . . The GOP committee, incidentally, is working for all Republican candidates, not for one. . . . Some Democrats accuse the Democratic national committee of working only for Jim Farley—which isn't a fact. Real fact: It isn't working at all.

Handicap

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

MY NEIGHBOR and his father came to do some plowing for me.

"I'll start the work," our neighbor said, and Dad will finish.

"But can he—without hands?" for we had been shocked to notice that our plowman's father had one hand off above the wrist and the other just below the elbow.

"Oh, sure! He does it right along. He plowed my truck patch yesterday. If 'tain't too wet—"

A thick mat of weeks and dead grass covered my patch. We fired it and burned off the little field, with a roaring creeping crackling wall of fire that left only blackened moist soil.

The men unloaded their plow and the younger man plowed two rounds. Then, with the lines tied about him and guiding the plow with the hand that was only a steel hook, the older man took over the job. He did it well, even to unhitching the team from the traces when it began to rain, and loading the plow into the wagon.

"I lost my hands quite a number of years apart—and got used to doing without one of them at a time," he told me. "When the doctor took the first one off I was pretty blue. I told Doc, 'I guess I'm done for.' Instead of pityin' me he looked right at me and said, 'Got your eyes and ears and mouth and feet haven't you? You haven't lost so much.' An' y' know, the more I thought about it the more I believed him. Then I got busy and after while forgot my right hand was gone. Years later I crushed the left one even worse and the same doctor amputated it. That time it was a little harder to believe that I could still keep workin—but I did. About the only thing I can't do on a farm is milk a cow or husk a shock of corn—and I never liked them jobs anyway.

"My son took me to the city once and along the street a fellow in a wheelchair spoke to me. 'I see you've lost your hands, said he, 'if you had your choice, would you rather do without your hands or your feet?' I said 'My feet.' Then he pulled back the blanket over his lap and I saw two footless legs. Right then I thanked the Lord for two good roving feet. Why without them a man can't even kick!"

We watched him guide the plow through stony ground quite deftly, then load it into the wagon, hitch up his team and drive away.

"If a person thinks he's no-account, he'll just keep on bein' no account til he changes his thinkin'—but I don't like that way o' livin'," he remarked.

REGISTRATION FOR PRIMARIES ENDS IN 4 DAYS

List of Qualified Voters In City 3,000 Below 19,000 Peak Two Years Ago.

Mansfielders have only four more days to register or transfer to be eligible to vote at the May 14 primary, election board officials pointed out today.

The registration period will close next Monday night and will not open again until after the primary. The election board offices are in the basement of the courthouse.

Despite the large field of county candidates and the prospect of a number of spirited contests, the city registration list is still about 3,000 below the peak of 19,000 two years ago, board officials said.

Persons of voting age who have moved into the city since the last election, failed to vote at the last two general elections, or have reached voting age since the last election must register to vote in May.

Transfers are required of those who have moved since the last election and women whose names were changed by marriage.

RIVALS CAT IN NUMBER LIVES

Man Reported Dead Three Times Now 78 Years Old; Still Going Strong.

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—(U P)—The family and friends of Lindley Baldwin might greet you with cool stares and raised eyebrows if you were the "man who came around" to report his death. Mr. Baldwin, 78 years old, has been reported dead, officially and otherwise, no less than three times.

As a youth of 15, he "passed away" of typhoid fever, according to the doctor attending him. Luckily, he revived before the doctor returned with the undertaker.

His second "death" occurred about a year later by "drowning." Taken unconscious from the Maumee river, his companions tried the log method of resuscitation, then prevalent, with no results. His body was slung over the back of a horse to be taken into town while a friend went ahead to report his death to the coroner.

On the way to town, the jogging of the horse carrying the drowned youth acted in much the same way that modern artificial respiration does, and Baldwin once more astounded his friends. The coroner meanwhile, going to the scene of the drowning, could find no body, but reported Baldwin officially dead.

No. 3 in the series of "deaths" came about as a result of the similarity in appearance of Baldwin and his cousin. Both men were frequent travelers on the same railroad line. In a train-wreck that killed his cousin, officials of the line reported Baldwin as the man fatally injured. The family was being deluged with messages of condolence and sympathy when Baldwin again appeared, as much alive as ever.

Looking back through the years, Baldwin gets a chuckle out of his bouts with death. When and if the real thing comes along—few of his friends would take the responsibility of saying "I told you so."

TYPHOID LOWER.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—(U P)—Alabama typhoid fever deaths last year dropped from an average of five a month in the preceding year to a four a month average, the state health department announced.

Planning a Garden?

Portable Garden an Idea For Roaming Agriculturalist

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
AP Feature Service Writer.

People who have got the urge to do some gardening but who rent their homes or otherwise occupy them under circumstances that aren't secure, might take a tip from the Farm Security Administration.

One of the requirements of FSA was that certain tenant-farmers should raise gardens to be eligible for FSA loans. Often, tenants had to move before their gardens matured and thus they lost the benefit.

NINTH IN A SERIES

So the FSA invented the portable garden. A substantial frame 18 inches deep, about 20 feet long and 5 wide is constructed. The bottom is filled with tin cans or tile, for drainage. They are covered with about 12 inches of super fertile soil.

As many of these portables as are necessary may be constructed, but FSA experts say if the soil is rich and planting is done carefully, one 20x5 frame will supply almost enough vegetables for a small farm family the year 'round.

If it is necessary for a family to move, frames are loaded on a truck and carried to the new home—even if the whole garden is all ready for the harvest.

Where space is limited, city gardeners have adapted the portable plan to their needs. They set the frame on top of the garage—or on the house if it has a flat roof—and raise their vegetables a-la-penthouse.

GIVES CLOSE-UP OF WORKINGS OF COURT AT ROTARY SESSION

A close-up view of the workings of Mansfield municipal court was given at Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, with explanation of procedure in the various kinds of cases that come before that court.

How the municipal court came into existence in 1927, by legislative enactment, to succeed the mayor's court and the Madison township justice of peace courts, was told by Judge Kalbfleisch, together with an outline of the increased scope of duties devolving on this court since it was originally established.

Considerable increase in the number of civil cases was revealed in the fact that about 1,100 such cases were brought in municipal court last year as compared with around 700 for each of the preceding several years, and that the income in costs in civil cases in 1939 totaled about $5,500.

Receipts from the criminal branch of the court in 1939 was reported as $19,206, of which a large percentage goes into the city's general fund.

Such matters as final jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases and preliminary action in felony charges were explained, felonies being the more serious offenses in which evidence of probable guilt results in the lower court binding over the accused to common pleas court for later action by the grand jury.

Methods of handling traffic offenders rounded out the talk, in which Judge Kalbfleisch gave much interesting information regarding the court over which he presides. Martin Brunner was program chairman of the meeting.

New car sales for the first quarter of this year totaled 836 for an increase of 3' per cent over the corresponding three months in 1939.

Music Students Charter Buses To Make Opera Trip

Two big chartered buses will carry members of the Crescendo Music Study club and their chaperones to Cleveland Thursday night to witness the performance of Bizet's "Carmen" by the Metropolitan Opera company.

There will be 47 members, all from Senior high school, and the following chaperones, Mrs. Paul Cropper, Mrs. Edward Gibson, Mrs. Marie M. Porterfield, Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Wadsworth, Mrs. L. C. Hughes, Mrs. M. W. Hieber and Miss Pearl Danback.

It will be a gala occasion for the young musical students. They will take box suppers with them and eat on the way.

The buses will leave the Greyhound terminal promptly at 5 p. m. and expect to arrive in Cleveland about 7:30. The buses will make the return trip immediately after the opera, and parents will either meet the girls at the station or they will be escorted to their homes by the chaperones.

Their president, Miss Axtell, has arranged to have them excused from classes until 10:30 a. m. Friday so that they can "sleep in" for two extra hours.

EGYPTIAN HALL TO LIVE AGAIN

KENTON.—(AP)—Famed "Egyptian Hall," built by the late William W. Durbin to display his hobby of magic and entertain the world's noted Magi, will live again.

Durbin passed up stage offers to devote his life to industry and politics, but the men of the stage came to him, swapped tricks, and displayed to small audiences in the tiny theater the magic that made them famous. Hiudini, Thurston, Blackstone, Herman, Keller—they all came to Kenton and the "Egyptian Hall." In 1926 Durbin organized the International Brotherhood of Magicians and served as its president until his death three years ago.

"Egyptian Hall" was sold recently to Thomas M. Dowd of Kenton, a young magician, who will carry on with his own shows on the same basis Durbin followed.

Mansfield Man Says Vendol Beats Anything He Ever Saw

Declares Famous Medicine Made a New and Different Person Out of Him. Tells Experience to Help Others.

MR. MAURICE SIMPSON

"A few bottles of Vendol have made a new and different man out of me and I challenge anyone to feel more hale and hearty than I do," said Mr Maurice Simpson employed by the State Highway Department and residing at 396 Oak Street, Mansfield, to the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store. This enthusiastic statement praising Vendol will certainly attract anyone who is not feeling so well and is looking for a reliable medicine to put them on their feet.

"Mere words do not describe the suffering and discomfort I endured for years due to allowing myself to be constipated. This condition often caused bilious, dizzy spells, jittery headaches and made me so nervous that I couldn't get a restful night's sleep. The least exertion seemed to sap all my strength and I couldn't perform my duties in the way I wanted to.

"I would often skip meals because I frequently suffered from indigestion, sour stomach, gas and cramps and sometimes felt like there was a lump lodged in my throat.

"Since taking Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets my improvement has been amazing. It first gave me the most satisfying relief from constipation and this seemed to relieve all symptoms of biliousness, dizzy spells, sour acid, gassy stomach, and to calm the nervousness so that my sleep is long and restful. I haven't had a nervous headache lately and feel grand every day. Vendol beats anything I ever tried and that is why I want to tell others about it so they may get Vendol and enjoy the same relief."

Start today on this famous upbuilding medicine. All druggists sell Vendol and you can get full information about it from the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, corner of Main and 4th Streets.—Adv.

Amsterdam heard a rumor that the ship had been torpedoed while transporting 1,600 German troops to a northern Norwegian port.

Some of these rumors said Norwegian coastal batteries sent the vessel to the bottom, along with the German battleship Gneisenau, which likewise was uncomfirmedly reported sunk

HIT WAR THREAT

COLUMBUS— (U P)—Predictions that this nation would avoid war and elect S U Sen Robert A Taft as its next president were voiced by Republican office seekers on various fronts last night.

Congressman-at-large George H Bender of Cleveland, seeking renomination at the May 14 primary said in a Richmond, Va, address that "as long as there is a congress, we're going to keep this country out of war" He asserted that Taft's election would end the "jag" this nation has "been on for the past seven years'

Rep. Dudley A. White of Norwalk said at Canton that "any president who tried to get the U. S. involved in a European war these days would be impeached before he got away with it." He accused President Roosevelt of sending Special Envoy Sumner Welles to Europe in an attempt to overshadow objections to a possible third term. White is campaigning for the U. S. senatorial nomination.

A White opponent, Mayor Harold H Burton of Cleveland, joined Mayor James Stewart of Cincinnati in assuring guests at a dinner in Lancaster that the Republican party was the best bet to restore confidence in American principles of government

Bender and Congressman-at-large L L Marshall, another Clevelander seeking renomination, were indorsed by the Franklin county Republican central committee. The group also indorsed George Neffner, newly appointed secretary of state, as a write-in candidate for that office

German, Allied Ships Sunk In Naval Battle

Nazis Lose Two Major Fighting Craft, British Two Destroyers; Land Fighting In Progress.

four battleships, two battle cruisers, two heavy cruisers, and two transports.

Britain reported five German cruisers had been hit, at least one of them sunk.

The fighting, touched off by Germany's invasion of Norway yesterday, was the bitterest general naval conflict of the war thus far as waves of warplanes supported the belligerent fleets

Germany said her land occupation of Norway was proceeding on schedule with control already established in the most important centers.

Travelers reaching Sweden said a battle was in progress between Norwegian troops and German land forces supported by planes at Elverum, 75 miles northeast of Oslo.

Britain's foreign secretary, Lord Halifax, announced that any Norwegian negotiations with Germany would be regarded as "action taken under duress" and would not deter Britain from fighting to drive the Germans from Norway.

The Iceland parliament, taking over control of its own foreign affairs as a result of the German occupation of Denmark with which Iceland is united under the Danish crown, said the invasion had made King Christian X unable to exercise his powers.

The British admiralty announced that its destroyer Hunter had been sunk and the Hardy run aground with unknown loss of life in a dawn attack on the German-held Norwegian port of Narvik, above the Arctic circle.

The other British forces at Narvik withdrew. The two destroyers had normal complements of 175 men each.

The admiralty mentioned an unconfirmed report that a German cruiser had been sunk in the Narvik raid, however, and said a British submarine torpedoed and probably sank another German cruiser off southern Norway last night.

Bombing planes attached to the British fleet hit two German cruisers off Bergen, southwestern Norway, the admiralty declared.

The Royal air force reported heavy damage to still another Nazi cruiser in that area last night, while the British scoffed at German claims that four British warships had been damaged badly. Two were hit by splinters, the British contended.

Germany, claiming firm possession of all important Norwegian military bases as a result of yesterday's lightning-like invasion, was reported to have poured powerful reinforcements into both Norway and Denmark.

There was a tomb-like quiet in Denmark, which offered no resistance to the occupation which Germany said was for "protection" against the British-French allies.

Norway squeezed painfully between rival "protectors" — Germany and Britain, found her own ranks divided.

The refugee Norwegian government at Hamar, 60 miles north of German-held Oslo, clung to life, denying that it had resigned in favor of a German-controlled regime proclaimed at Oslo.

Sweden, under pressure from Germany, promised strict neutrality, despite the plight of her long-time friend and neighbor.

Belgium and the Netherlands were nervously alert for fear the next stride of war might be in their direction. British warships were reported clearing the North sea of all shipping.

BULLETIN

BERLIN —(U.P.)— Authorized sources said today that so far as they knew the British-German sea engagement off the coast of Norway still was in progress. "We have received no reports the sea engagement already is finished," it was said.

BERLIN—(AP)—Germany admitted today that she had lost two cruisers under the fire of Norwegian coastal batteries in landing troops in Norway yesterday, but stated that despite this resistance a complete and "mutually satisfactory" agreement with Norway would be reached within a few hours.

A high command communique showed that the Norwegians fought bitterly against the Germans, but claimed despite this opposition the occupation of Narvik, Drontheim, Bergen, Stavanger, Egersund, Kristiandsand, Arendal and Oslo. These cities, "among others, are firmly in German hands," said the communique.

(Reports reaching Stockholm said a battle was in progress this morning between German and Norwegian troops at Elverum, 75 Norwegian troops of Oslo, where the Norwegian royal family and government took refuge yesterday. The outcome was not known.)

Informed German quarters said they expected a complete agreement with King Haakon shortly. The German minister to Norway had an audience with the monarch to clarify the situation and determine who is responsible for governing Norway, an official announcement said.

(British Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax said today that the allies would regard German-Norwegian negotiations as "action taken under duress.")

It was insisted that German action to "protect the neutrality of the northern states" was finished and it was stated flatly that no steps in relation to Sweden were contemplated.

The Scandinavian states were pronounced by one commentator to be "100 per cent secure against the western powers' desire to involve them in war."

"Norway and Denmark," this source said, "may now be positive that the danger of war is over for them, and they may also be sure they have nothing to fear from Germany."

Germans described the military occupation of strategic points in Norway so general and so thorough that the British-French allies under no conceivable circumstances could obtain a foothold in Scandinavia.

At the same time they denied that Germany had occupied Iceland, which is united with Denmark under the Danish crown, or Greenland, a Danish possession, which might have brought the war closer to the American continent.

"Germany hasn't the remotest interest in either Iceland or Greenland and they are militarily of no significance in Germany's fight for existence," it was said. "These lands remain completely under the jurisdiction of Denmark."

Nazis Bottled Up, Reynaud Declares.

PARIS—(U.P.)—All German warships in Norwegian waters have been bottled up by the allied fleets, Premier Paul Reynaud told the French senate today.

Reynaud spoke at a senate session which was to be followed by a secret session which will debate such questions as the failure of the allied fleets to keep the Germans out of Norway.

The premier said that the German cruiser Bluecher, 10,000 tons, and the light cruiser Karlsruhe, 6,000 tons, had been sunk. He fixed allied losses in today's naval battle off Narvik as one British destroyer sunk and one beached.

Indicating that the French too participated in the engagement he said that no French vessels were damaged.

The senate applauded Reynaud and it was decided to call off the scheduled secret session of the senate today and debate on the government's statement was postponed until Tuesday.

"France takes full responsibility for its part in the allied notes to Norway (announcing allied mining of Norwegian waters)" Reynaud said.

"Not one ton of iron ore will quit Narvik for Germany henceforth.

"Long before the allies planted mine fields Germany was preparing an invasion of Scandinavia. Germany previously had dispatched in merchant ships soldiers disguised as civilians and seamen."

Reynaud reviewed events in the spread of the war to Scandinavia.

"Allied action started Monday (when mine fields were laid) with the idea of terminating an intolerable situation — the supplying of iron ore to the enemy," he said.

"Norwegian neutrality privileges no longer existed because of repeated German violations of Norwegian waters."

"Germany furthermore has violated the treaty of non-aggression which she solemnly promised Denmark that there would be no recourse to force," he said. "There is nothing comparable to Germany's attacks on Scandinavia."

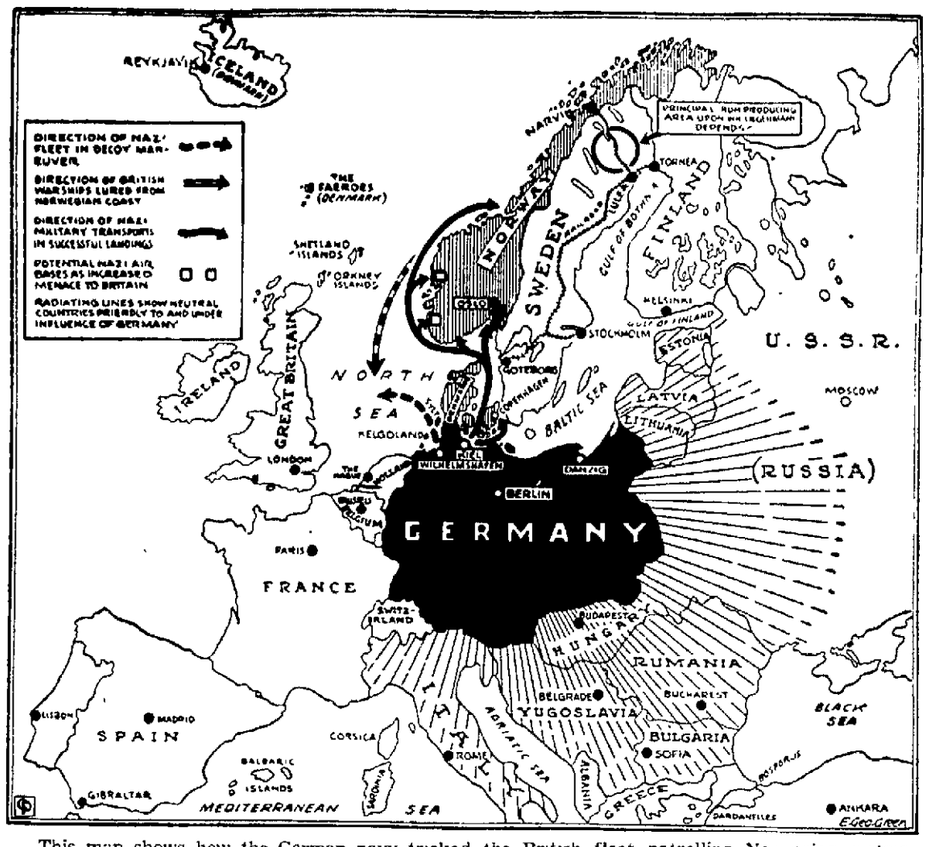
How Germany Fights to Keep Lines Open



This map shows how the German navy tricked the British fleet patrolling Norwegian waters into the North sea in pursuit. German transports carrying expeditionary force then slipped into the vacated waters and the invasion of Norway began. This incident launched Germany's desperate effort to keep her sources of supply open and available, since the British blockade about a neutral Norway had threatened to wall in Germany's source of vital Swedish iron ore. The radiating lines toward the southeast and south show Germany's other sources of vital supplies—Russia and the Balkans.

REPORT BATTLE NEAR FRONTIER

and the Germans were in strong positions at Narvik, where British naval forces were reported to have made an unsuccessful attack on the harbor.

Withdraw Forces.

Norwegian forces in the Narvik zone withdrew inland while British warships were attempting to bottle up the coast of Narvik.

Reports reaching the frontier said that fight was developing inland from Herjangsfjord, where a comparatively large Norwegian force blocked the highway after withdrawing out of range of the German naval guns.

Advices received here indicated that the Germans were being opposed at two points. The second point was near the village of Scoglund, where the road switches up to a mountain pass and where the Norwegians were in a strong defensive position.

Tromsoe Defense.

Details were lacking and it was difficult to estimate the numbers involved or the possibility of a major battle, but Norwegians believed that the Scoglund clash might develop into a defense of Tromsoe which would be to the allied advantage if they move in swiftly.

The number of Germans occupying Narvik was estimated at around 1,500. They were reported to have only 10 hydroplanes at Narvik at present but others were expected from Germany. Only hydroplanes can operate out of Narvik because of the hills.

About 542 Norwegians were lost when German warships stormed the harbor at Narvik yesterday.

The fighting in north-central Norway, around Narvik, was for possession of the Norwegian railroads into Sweden.

The keypoints at the moment appeared to be Narvik and Trondheim, where the railroads lead across the mountain barriers between Norway and Sweden.

STREET REPAIRS PUZZLING CITY

Mayor and Service Director Scratch Heads as Funds Dwindle, Bills Pile Up.

Despite the fact that almost half the year's budget for water repairs was used in the first quarter, Locke said he was confident the work could be kept within the remaining $11,000 for the other three quarters.

Repairs to streets damaged by zero weather during January, February and March, however, will require considerably more money than was allowed by the department, the mayor said.

The budget set up only $15,500 for street maintenance materials and this includes funds for salt used on icy streets. Some money in this fund is being used for the West Fourth street paving project.

Charles Hebel, superintendent of streets, said 218 streets had been dug up during the winter in order to repair pipe line breaks and that all of these, plus hundreds of breaks in asphalt paving over the city, must be paid for out of the street material fund. The labor is provided for under another fund.

Locke said today that while Hebel had not been able to make an estimate of the amount of damage, that the figure would be considerably more than is available.

With MARIANNE

YOUR spring wardrobe just can't be complete unless you compliment your lips and fingertips with the varying tones they need to harmonize with your smart costumes. . . . You won't find this a hard job either, because one of the leading manufacturers of lipstick and nail polish has introduced three grand new shades. . . . Along with the arrival of the circus in the spring come, "Pink Lemonade" and "Red Punch"—lighthearted carnival colors for gay spring clothes. . . . The first tint is a sunlit rose-pink, certainly the proper accent for blush pinks, pastel blues, mauve and rose, while the vivid, rose-red punch seems to have been especially created to dramatize raspberry hues, navy blues, sharp yellows, turquoise, black and white. . . . You'll find these shades of lipstick and nail enamel in little polka dot purse pouches, dyed to match, or you can purchase them separately. . . . Now for wear with neutral tones, this same manufacturer is recommending "Raven Red"—the blackest red you've ever seen. . . . This intense midnight red dramatically highlights your fingertips against soft neutral backgrounds of beige and gray, and makes your hands seem pale and white in contrast—oh yes, there's matching lipstick too. . . . And all of these beauty compliments of color are awaiting you in downtown shops.

Marianne

* * *

Other costume accents can be found in the stunning new sac de perl purses and belts. . . . This lustrous white pearlized leather is washable and sun-proof. . . . The purses are all quite large in a variety of new shapes, and the prettiest feature about them is that they are decorated with pastel floral designs, hand-painted in oils. . . . The grosgrain linings and trim are in harmonizing tones of pastel pink and blue, as well as bright red and navy. . . . The matching belts have hand painted buckles in complimentary flower motifs.

* * *

IF YOU'RE looking for a gift for your best beau, you'll be proud as punch over your choice when you see his delight at receiving something in the new 'Seaforth" line of toiletries for men. . . . These items (which include shaving soap, shaving lotion, talc, cologne and soap) all bear the unmistakable mark of a man's product—having the invigorating odor of the Scotch moors with its faint scent of heather. . . . The snug brown caps and the stone containers are also in the tradition of Old Scotland—and they lend an attractive note to the dresser in any man's bedroom.

* * *

HERE'S a tip for starting and ending every day perfectly. . . . Pour a few drops of Bath Friction into the warm water of your tub, and you'll find that this lemon-fresh liquid will relieve all your tension and nervousness and relax you completely. . . . This cool-looking liquid comes in a frosted bottle and proves to be an excellent water softener too. . . . Then if you take an extra minute or two after stepping from the tub to give your body a brisk rub with it, you'll find it's fine for waking up the circulation and gently closing the pores—yes, and it leaves a sweet-scented, smooth protective film on the skin to help guard against all kinds of weather.

* * *

With the approach of warmer weather, the use of a good deodorant can't be overlooked . . . There's a liquid one that is a most effective non-perspirant, has a pleasant fragrance and offers full perspiration control. . . . Or for less extreme cases, creams are recommended.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I found Edith awake, but distinctly drowsy, with an evident lessening of nerve tension, which gladdened me.

"I hate to disturb you," I told her, "but my room is ready for you now, and I thought I'd better get you there before I have to attend to some other pressing things.

"Of course," she assented eagerly.

"There has something come up—something important—which I have to do with Lillian," I told her, "and it will be more convenient if we share the same room. For that reason I'm turning over this room to you until further notice I fancy you'll like it better than bunking in the nursery suite. You can be all to yourself here, and I'll bring over your things right away. There's only one thing I'm asking. I'd like to send Miss Whitlock to look you over. Or would you rather have Katherine?"

"I don't need anybody," she said, "but if I must have somebody, I infinitely prefer Miss Whitlock. You have forgiven me, Madge, I can feel it, but both Lillian and Katharine resent my being anywhere near you and I can't blame them. Neither of them wants to see me, and naturally, I'd like to oblige them."

"You won't need to see anybody for awhile," I said. "If I'm not mistaken, you're going to sleep fairly soon. I'll look in later in the afternoon, and bring Miss Whitlock with me. In the meantime, please don't hesitate to ring for Katie if you wish anything. Promise me!"

"I promise," she said, "but I think I'm persona non grata with Katie also."

"Don't talk nonsense!" I said brusquely.

I found Lillian in her own room to which she had taken my possessions as soon as I had taken Edith away from it. She was emptying a dresser drawer, and a minute later removed clothing from some of the hooks in the closet, and cleared one half of her dressing table of her toilet articles, crowding them on the other side.

"Make yourself at home!" she adjured me with a gamin grin. "You're likely to be here quite a spell before they get that gas out so settle yourself down for a little rest."

It was nearly an hour before they brought us a message, and they were hot, dusty and disheveled.

"We've been over the place with a fine-tooth comb," Harry Underwood announced, "just to see that our recent visitors hadn't left any little pocket bombs lying around loose. But it's safe for you to go up now, and if you don't mind hurrying with that clothes stunt, I'd be grateful. I'd like to get going as soon as I can."

"You shall have them in five minutes," I promised.

"Better bring us up a big suitcase and a hat bag," Lillian suggested.

"There are some empties up there." I amended hurriedly and, with Lillian by my side, I went to the attic. Going directly to the mothproof closet, I selected a complete outfit of Mary's clothing, another of Noel's and packed them into the empty luggage kits. Lillian called our men to carry them down, and then put her hand compellingly upon my arm.

"Stick around a bit," she said, "and let's do a bit of measuring."

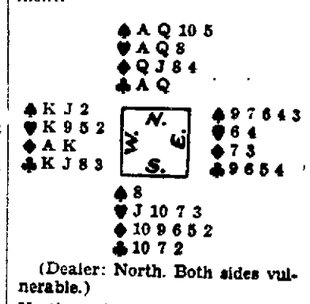
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT DOES HE MEAN?

If you have doubled the opponents' bid, asking for a take-out, and the next opponent has redoubled, what would a bid by your partner now mean? Would he be showing substantial strength, because of the logic that the opponent has relieved him of the responsibility of bidding on a weak hand? Or would he be showing weakness, making sure of letting you know his distribution at the earliest possible moment.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 NT	Dbl
Rdbl	Pass	Pass	Pass

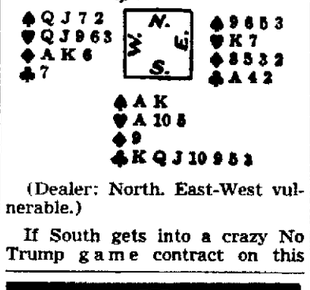
North and South had explained they use short-suit Club bids frequently, also the "negative No Trump," a No Trump response being required on a weak hand. That accounts for South's queer-looking bid. In the play West took exactly three tricks, after leading the heart 2. He got one in hearts and two in diamonds. The opponents, besides game and 400 points for the redoubled 1-No Trump, got 1200 points for three redoubled extra tricks at 400 each.

West explained that he thought his partner's pass of the redouble indicated strength, so that a profitable set of the contract was in sight. East said he thought his partner would have treated a bid at that spot as indicating strength.

All of which points to the value of new partners agreeing on the meaning to be attached to a bid over such a redouble. Lacking any agreement, perhaps a wise course for East would have been to bid, since he had a five-card major, pass otherwise. In this case, 2-Spades would have been set badly, perhaps four tricks doubled, but that would have cost only 1100 points, and so would have saved the side several hundred.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

If South gets into a crazy No Trump game contract on this deal, what is the correct defense to avoid handing it to him on a silver platter?

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, April 11.

Under unusually expansive and productive planetary influences, this day should be one of outstanding accomplishment, with commonplace matters moving into successful channels, and with the artistic, cultural, social and philanthropic urges finding gratifying expression in generous returns for efficient effort. It is a time to work for achieving the goal of heart's desire, both in pratical as well as sentimental objectives. Particular success may be realized in connection with groups of kindred ideals and with the support of elders.

Those whose birthday it is may look to a year of much gratification in return for lofty ideals and exalted purpose, with high aims and aspirations fostered by expansive warming and generous influences. Group work in connection with social, humane or cultural programs is especially likely to succeed, and the hearty support of elders and old institutions is assured. Romantic, artistic and intellectual aspirations are encouraged as well. Work with high purpose.

A child born on this day may have rich endownemts for attaining prominence and prestige in the higher walks of life—humane, cultural, artistic and social. Romance and good fellowship also bless its life.

The first eclipse recorded in history hapened March 19, 721, B. C., according to Ptolemy.
